Mayor Says Council Rather Reluctant to Do Work In View of Protests

WIDESPREAD OPPOSITION to proposed construction of a $150,000 subway under the Santa Fe and the Southern Pacific railroad tracks on East Fourth street was registered last night at the regular city council meeting with the filing of numerous written protests, supplemented by oral representations. Pending a checking up of the protests filed against the undertaking, action on the same was postponed until the regular meeting set for January 5.

Formal protests, drawn up by attorneys and conforming to legal requirements, were filed by the Santa Fe railroad, the Southern Pacific company, the Pacific Electric, Barr Lumber company, George M. Ketscher, Santa Ana Walnut Growers association, W. C. Collins and Raitt's Dairy.

Indicating a change of heart as to the advisability of the proposed project at this time was a petition, carrying 142 names, protesting against the improvement for various reasons. Quite a number of the names appearing on the protest filed last night were attached to the original petition filed about two years ago asking for the subway. The protest was presented by Attorney Harry C. Westover, counsel for the objectors.

Explains Protests

In presenting the petition against the improvement, Attorney Westover called attention to the fact that many of the names appearing on the same were attached to the original petition asking for the subway. He explained this inconsistency with the statement that many of the original signers had been led to believe that the railroad companies were to pay half of the cost, when as a matter of fact they will only be required to pay 10 per cent of the estimated expenditure.

Objection to Attorney Westover's explanation was made by Col. S. H. Finley, large East Fourth street property owner, who stated that he was the man who circulated the original petition and that nothing was said at the time about the railroads paying half of the cost. Neither was this feature of the improvement touched upon at the various meetings of the Eastside Improvement association, Finley added. Accepting the explanation made by Col. Finley, Attorney Westover offered his apology to Finley.

Attorney L. A. West called attention to the fact that the matter of cost as well as the share to be borne by the railroads had been discussed at a three-day hearing held here last February before the State Railroad commission, which hearing was open to the public, and attended by

64 Survivors For Pioneer Of Southland

REDLANDS, Dec. 23.—(UP)—Funeral services were conducted here yesterday for Mrs. Eliza Singleton Ousterhout, 91, who is survived by 64 descendants.

Mrs. Ousterhout, a native of England, walked across the plains from Ohio to Salt Lake City before the days of the railroad, because of her aversion to covered wagons. Later she moved here during the early Mormon trek to Southern California.

Surviving her are five daughters, 27 grandchildren, 24 great grandchildren and eight great-great-grandchildren.

SUCCESSOR TO SEN. GREENE IS CHOSEN TODAY

Frank Partridge Appointed By Governor Weeks of State of Vermont

MONTPELIER, Vt., Dec. 23.—(UP)—Frank C. Partridge, president of the Vermont Marble company, was appointed by Gov. John E. Weeks today to fill the temporary vacancy caused by the recent death of United States Senator Frank Lester Greene.

Partridge, like the man he succeeds is a Republican.

The late senator died in a St. Albans hospital after an operation for hernia last week.

How long Partridge will hold the seat to which he was named today is problematical. Under Vermont's state laws, if a senatorial vacancy occurs more than six months prior to the next regular general election, a special election must be held to choose a successor.

The unexpired term of the late senator's office is four years, and two years remain before the next general election, scheduled for September, 1932.

The state legislature which convenes next month may be called upon to amend or repeal the statute calling for a special election.

SEN. BORAH FAVORS SPECIAL SESSION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—(UP)—Sen. William E. Borah of Idaho, a leader of the independent Republicans, has broken with the administration on the subject of a special session of congress.

Borah favors the extra session after March 4 while President Hoover unqualifiedly opposes the idea.

The extra session should be called to consider interstate motor bus regulation, power and railroad legislation, the anti-injunction bill and farm relief in the form of the export debenture, Borah believes.

Window At Post Office Will Be Open At Night

The general delivery window of the Santa Ana post office will be open today and tomorrow from 7 to 8 p. m. in order to accommodate persons who have received notices to call for packages addressed to them, it was announced by T. E. Stephenson, postmaster.

Stephenson said that trucks would deliver parcels but if no one was found at home, notices would be left instructing those to whom the packages are addressed to call for them at the general delivery window.

PLANE RETURNS

CASA BLANCA, Morocco, Dec. 23.—(UP)—One of 12 Italian seaplanes en route to South America left the squadron during the flight from Kenitra to Villa Cisneros today and returned to Kenitra. Carburator trouble was blamed.

A radio message reported all well with the rest of the squadron. Air Minister Italo Balbo, leading the flight, radioed the French officials here thanking them for their hospitality at Kenitra.

HIGHEST WAGE PROMISED FOR PUBLIC WORKS

Government to Pursue Such Policy in Construction Contracts

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—(UP)—The government has adopted an "will pursue a policy of maintaining the highest prevailing wage scales in construction contracts, President Hoover announced at the White House today.

Mr. Hoover pointed out that the policy was first adopted a year ago when employers were called for an agreement to maintain the then existing wage levels. He said it had been followed in every direction both as to existing contracts for construction of government buildings throughout the nation and as to contracts being let.

The policy guarantees that those who work under private contractors in constructing government projects will receive the highest wage rate prevailing in the districts in which they are working.

At the same time Mr. Hoover issued an analysis of the increased construction the government has undertaken to alleviate unemployment.

It estimated that the construction outlay had increased from $276,567,000 in 1928, to $320,445,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1931, and $625,661,000 for the fiscal year 1932.

In addition to these expenditures the government will spend on highways during the calendar year 1931 about $90,500,000 and on the rivers and harbors $25,500,000, a total of $116,000,000. Added to this an outlay of $30,000,000 to accelerate the building program by employing outside architects.

Mr. Hoover estimated that the total outlay for the calendar year 1931, would be $725,055,000 as compared with the yearly average expenditure of $275,000,000.

FIRE CONSUMES HOME IN ORANGE

A gas stove flame which was left burning in a house at 169 South Grand street, Orange, is thought to have caused a fire this noon which caused a loss of about $500. The house is owned by Mrs. J. A. Hardin and the tenants who occupied it were both away at work when the alarm was given.

One side of the kitchen wall was burned through and a part of the furniture was damaged. The greater part of the furniture was removed from the burning structure by firemen, according to Fire Chief Al Tomblin.

Two Employees Of Power Commission Dismissed Today

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—(UP)—Solicitor Charles F. Russell and William V. King, accountant, of the Federal Power commission today were dismissed from duty by the incoming power commissioners.

F. E. Bonner, executive secretary of the old commission, submitted his resignation also today. He had announced his intention to resign two weeks ago during a controversy in the senate over the appointment of George Otis Smith, of Maine, new commission chairman.

Russell and King, with Bonner, have been a storm center of the power commission affairs.

Russell recently drew fire because of his attacks on the Pennsylvania Public Service commission, which he accused of failure to protect the public interests.

Smudging Is Resorted To Last Night

Temperature of 26 In Tustin and Garden Grove Is Reported

LOW TEMPERATURES experienced in some parts of the county after midnight caused firing of orchard heaters in several sections, but no damage to the citrus crop or trees was believed to have resulted from the cold and frost, it was stated by authorities today. Temperatures reached a low 26 in the Tustin districts, and Garden Grove, where assaults of Jack Frost were apparently most severe.

The smudging, which started in some districts before 2 a. m., caused a curtain of smoke to hang over the Santa Ana valley this morning. The firing of heaters was reported to be general throughout the citrus districts of the state and temperatures ranging between 25 and 29 degrees were reported by F. D. Young, government frost expert of Pomona, though the district embracing North Whittier Heights, Riverside, Pomona, San Bernardino, Ontario, Upland and Azusa.

A wind which was blowing in some districts helped prevent damage from the cold. This was especially noticeable in the Tustin district, according to Ross Shaffer, prominent grower, who said the mercury hit a low of 38 degrees at 2 a. m. when the breeze came up and boosted the temperature back to about 34 degrees between 3 and 4 o'clock. The drop in temperature was rapid and most heaters were fired at the first drop, but were extinguished as the thermometer readings showed an advance above the danger point.

The lowest marks in the Orange and Garden Grove districts were recorded about 6 a. m., according to reports from these communities. At Garden Grove a low of 26 degrees was experienced for a few minutes at 6 a. m. In Orange the coldest mark was 33 at that hour, according to reports from Earl Campbell.

Near Buena Park the thermometer showed 32 at midnight, 30 at 3 a. m., then rose as a breeze started to circulate the air through the orchards until the mercury went up to 40 by 5 a. m. No heating was reported from this section.

Other reports showed that low marks reached were as follows: 28 at daylight at Seventeenth street and West Orange; 29 and 30 after midnight at San Joaquin and West Orange.

County Farm Advisor Harold Wahlberg and County Agricultural Commissioner A. A. Brock both stated today that it was believed that no damage had resulted from the cold in Orange county.

LUCAS-NORRIS BATTLE WIDENS G. O. P. BREACH

Executive Director Determined to Read Senator Out of Party

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—(UP)—Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee, is determined to continue his efforts to oust Sen. George W. Norris of Nebraska from the party ranks, it was learned today.

Lucas has been revealed as the prosecutor of a heretofore secret campaign against the veteran Nebraskan, a campaign that was backed by party funds.

The executive director's attempt to read Norris out of the party has brought commendatory telegrams from national committeemen and other party leaders throughout the country. It also brought commendation today from Representative Wood, of Indiana, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee. Wood voiced his sentiments after a call on President Hoover.

Chairman Fess of the Republican national committee told the United Press today that he knew nothing of Lucas' campaign against Norris which was disclosed by the Nye campaign investigating committee. "I knew nothing about it," Fess said. "I had not even an inference of the matter."

Lucas' determination to continue his campaign immediately raised in the minds of politicians the possibility of a third party, but the standpat Republicans maintained that the movement was directed solely against Norris.

It was stated, for instance, that party irregularity was a matter of degree, and that Norris was considered the outstanding rebel. It was specifically stated to the United

Levey And Little Claim Victory For Assembly Position

MERCED, Dec. 23.—(UP)—Edgar C. Levey, of San Francisco, and Walter J. Little, of Santa Monica, today each was claiming a majority vote of the next assembly for the speakership, following a caucus here yesterday of the San Joaquin valley's nine assemblymen. The meeting was the third of its kind in recent weeks.

Levey apparently gained back another of the valley legislators yesterday, when he claimed to have won Frank S. Israel, of San Joaquin county, to his side after Israel's vote had been given by proxy to Little at the Fresno meeting.

DETROIT, Dec. 23.—(UP)—Virginia Pikula, 8-year-old cripple, faced a cheerless Christmas until Mayor Frank Murphy told her she could throw the switch that will light the hundreds of lights on the municipal Christmas tree. "Can I wear a Santa Claus suit?" she asked. The mayor said yes.

PULASKI, Va., Dec. 23.—(UP)—Nine-year-old Watts Steger has been saving his money for a year to buy a Christmas bicycle. Someone told Watts lots of people in Pulaski would go hungry this year. "Buy five barrels of flour and give it to poor people," he ordered, tossing his bicycle money on the counter at the Community Chest headquarters.

Aid Is Sent To Needy By City Groups

Various Organizations of City Meet and Make Out Their Lists

SANTA ANA'S community Christmas is being celebrated today and tomorrow with no great blare of noise and enthusiasm, but with a great deal of constructive work.

Christmas baskets and other useful gifts are being distributed in great quantities to the people who need such help, and who might otherwise be missed by Santa Claus.

Meeting in the Community Chest office yesterday afternoon, representatives of various societies compared their lists and their preparations, so as to make sure that no needy ones were neglected, and that there were no duplications. R. H. Miller, manager of the Community Chest, reports that the Salvation Army has assumed responsibility for about 150 Christmas baskets. The Elks are providing about 100, and the schools, the churches, the Scouts and other organizations, as well as a number of individuals, are taking care of a large number additional. Toys have been provided by the firemen of the city, and clothing, books and other useful articles have been contributed by many organizations and individuals.

About 375 families, in all, are scheduled to receive Christmas gifts of food, clothing, shoes, books, toys and other articles. From the present situation, Miller believes that adequate provision has been made to meet the pressing needs of the day, and that Christmas will be a day of universal joy in Santa Ana.

"However," says Miller, "while we are glad to believe that the Christmas situation is adequately cared for, we need to remember that we have two or three months ahead of us in which help is going to be badly needed by a lot of folks. It is going to continue to tax the resources of our relief agencies to care for them. We can't do all our good works in one day or one week. Don't forget that people get just as hungry in January as in the last week of December."

LEGGE TAKES EXCEPTIONS TO CHARGES

THOMAS ALSO IS HIT

Leader of Hoover's Group Singles Out Two Senators In His Attack

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—(UP)—Chairman Alexander Legge was embroiled today in disputes with at least two senators over farm board policies and methods of operating.

Striking back at senatorial attacks on the board, Legge singled out Senators William E. Borah, Republican, Idaho, and Elmer Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, as the objects of his barbs, determined apparently to dispatch all opposition forthwith.

Legge, under attack from congress since inception of the board 18 months ago, ridiculed Borah's opposition to the $150,000,000 farm board appropriation bill, signed yesterday by President Hoover. Borah said it would only postpone judgment day.

"That's only a cyclone," said Legge. "And scientists tell us a cyclone is super-heated air run amuck."

Although he failed to mention Thomas, Legge characterized as "an unmitigated liar" anyone who said that he or any other member of the farm board had stated the board was depressing wheat and cotton prices in order to give the consumer cheap bread and cloth.

This was in answer to a statement of President John Simpson of the Farmers' union in Oklahoma who had been informed by Senator Thomas that a board member had admitted before the senate agriculture committee that the board was keeping wheat and cotton prices down.

Thomas came back today, however, with the charge that it was Legge himself who had made the damaging statement before the senate committee. He charged furthermore that Legge afterward appeared before the senate appropriations committee and testified "exactly opposite."

Contractors' Association To Use Five Day Week

WILL AID IN SOLVING JOB PROBLEM HERE

As a material aid to the unemployed and the unemployment situation in Orange county, contractors who are members of the General Contractors' association have agreed, it was learned today, to put into practice a five-day working week instead of six during the present period of business depression, to take effect immediately.

This step, the contractors believe, will give work to approximately 20 per cent more working men than are now hired by association contractors. The association also agreed to recommend the five-day week to all employers on construction work throughout the county.

The plans for the five-day week were discussed and agreed on at a meeting of the General Contractors' association held in the Builders' Exchange headquarters here last night.

While the five-day week is not the best way to handle construction work, in the opinion of a number of the contractors, they all agreed to the plan, it was said, in order to help relieve the employment situation and to distribute labor to as many men as possible.

Teacher Arrested On Check Charge

Nancy B. West, 45, teacher, of 262 West Harriett street, Pasadena, was in the county jail today charged with issuing a fictitious check at Laguna Beach. She was arrested late yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Steward and Humiston at her home, and returned to jail here last night.

Mrs. West is alleged to have issued a fictitious check to Elmer Hutchins, at Laguna Beach, several days ago. The check was for $25.

Celebrates By Tearing Up Fence Posts

There's liquor that makes you climb trees, 'tis said, and there's liquor that makes makes a housecat spit in a bulldog's face, 'tis said, but what the Santa Ana police want to know, is what kind of liquor makes you want to pull up the fence around your neighbor's yard?

Benito Guerrero, 29, of 1027 Lincoln street, was arrested last night by Officer Charles Wolford, when the officer caught him pulling up a fence next door to his place.

Guerrero had almost succeeded in pulling the posts of the entire fence before the officer arrived. "He was just drunk," the officer said.

EDUCATION GROUP MEETS HERE TODAY

The new education committee of the Orange County Farm Bureau, headed by Ross Shafer, of Tustin, was in session today at the farm bureau office, mapping out a program of objectives for the ensuing year. The committee was addressed by M. A. Kipf, instructor of agriculture at the San Bernardino High school.

Members of the committee, in addition to Shafer, are H. E. Wahlberg, county farm adviser, Louis Jacobson of Placentia, and H. J. Hinrichs, of Orange. The committee hopes to secure more recognition of agriculture in the high schools and junior colleges of the county.

SCHOOL OFFICE SHIFT OPPOSED BY EDUCATORS

A protest against moving the offices of the county superintendent of schools from the hall of records to the St. Ann's inn annex was presented to the board of supervisors today by leading educators of the county, including the present superintendent, R. P. Mitchell, and his successor, Ray Adkinson.

It was declared by those addressing the board that education was growing in importance every year and that its rank and importance deserved better quarters than could be provided in the court house annex, which is now being remodeled for use of county offices.

Mrs. Gladys Head, president of the Orange County Grammar School Principals' association, and principal of the Orangefield school, told the board that she represented 700 teachers in the county, and that while the teachers of the county in the past never had entered politics, they would do so if necessary to get their rights. Others who addressed the board on the matter were Lynn H. Crawford, president of the Santa Ana Teachers' league, Mrs. Pauline Merchant, of Garden Grove, who has worked with the California council of education, Superintendent Mitchell and Adkinson.

Superintendent Mitchell asserted that the change contemplated would be a detriment to the conduct of the business of the office and that the close relation between that office and the offices of the county auditor and county treasurer required that it be kept in the hall of records. He also asserted that half of the money of the county was spent for education and that the office really required better quarters than it now occupied, rather than making a change for the worse. The board stated that the matter would be given its careful consideration.

PROTESTS OVER FOURTH STREET SUBWAY FILED

Citizens interested in the proposed subway project, expressed surprise that no protest was made at that time against the undertaking.

Says Plan Unsound
Attorney Fred Forgy, representing some of the large business concerns protesting against the improvement, denounced it as economically unsound and not needed at this time. He stressed the fact that considerable money had been spent on widening East First street, which circumstance proved that the city itself considered that thoroughfare as the main artery of through motor travel.

Commenting on the protests, Mayor Frank L. Purlinton made it known that the city fathers were rather reluctant in ordering proceedings for this improvement, and only did so in view of the petition before them. The protests filed against the project, he added, has created an embarrassing situation, not to mention the $3500 already expended on preliminary proceedings, including surveys, preparation of plans and specifications.

Beesemyer's decision to change his plea came suddenly. After conferring with his client, Davis notified the district attorney's office of the decision. Judge Wood, who had adjourned court for the day, took the bench again.

Beesemyer greeted newspapermen with a friendly "hello" as he entered. He made only one request—that his wife be permitted to visit him in county jail.

CHRISTMAS EVE PARTIES AT 2 FOX THEATERS

The Fox West Coast's annual Christmas party to all the children of Santa Ana and Orange county will be held in both Fox theaters here tomorrow.

At the Fox Broadway theater will be seen "Flight," one of the greatest air pictures of the year, and at the Fox West Coast theater will be seen George Jessel in "Live, Love and Laugh."

Both shows will start promptly at noon tomorrow and every mother in Santa Ana is asked to send her children to the theaters, thereby giving themselves ample opportunity to make preparation for Santa Claus in their own homes.

Aside from the big pictures being presented, stage presentations have been prepared for each theater. Dancing and singing of Christmas carols will feature this part of the entertainment and the trees which will be decorated on the stage later will be taken to the county juvenile homes, it was said.

There is no admission charge for any child who attends either of the theaters at noon tomorrow.

Duck Hunters Are Arrested Here As Their Car Crashes

Two Los Angeles men, who went south to hunt ducks but who, according to their own statement, ended in Tijuana instead, were arrested at Fourth and Main streets last night and lodged in the county jail on liquor charges, after their car is said to have collided with a machine owned by Joe Davis, of 1006 East Fourth street. The men were: Lester A. Hunter, 26, of 3002 Silver Lake avenue, and Robert Matheson, 30, of 1952 1-2 La Salle avenue.

No one in the Davis machine was reported injured. Hunter was booked at the county jail on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor and Matheson was charged with being drunk. Both men had shotguns in their car, which bore out their hunting story, police said.

Police News

Charlie Welsh, 40, Santa Ana, was arrested at Fourth and Garfield streets last night on a charge of being drunk. Officers Perry and Art Wagner made the arrest.

H. M. Peterson, a resident of the Katella road, reported to the sheriff's office today that 10 gallons of gasoline were stolen from his tank last night.

Harry Stanky, 27, electrician, of 126 North Citrus street, Anaheim, was arrested late yesterday by Harry Carter, deputy sheriff, and is being held in the county jail for San Bernardino officers. The man was arrested here on a warrant from San Bernardino, Carter said.

ed Press by substantial leaders that no challenge was to be made on Senator Borah's Republicanism.

But all Republican leaders are not viewing the Lucas-Norris incident complacently. There is a large number which considers Lucas' action as likely to cause more trouble than it will cure.

Lucas' bitter opposition to Norris was explained by an informed Republican leader to have been prompted largely by the Republican national committee's experience this year in raising campaign funds. Countless potentially large contributors, the United Press was informed, refused to donate without assurances that none of the money would be allotted Norris in Nebraska.

Under these circumstances, it is said, Lucas decided Norris had become a menace to the party organization throughout the country and particularly to its source of income.

The general position taken among regulars is that Lucas would be doing his party a service if he could divorce Norris from the Republican label. None in the senate so far, however, has endorsed Lucas' methods of opposing the veteran insurgent.

Officers Arrest El Centro Pair

Two men, Russell Weaver, 22, and M. W. Lanthorn, 24, of El Centro, today were in the Orange county jail, booked for suspicion of grand theft, following their arrest here last night by Officers Adams and Perry, of the Santa Ana police department.

The two men were taken into custody at Seventeenth street and Grand avenue when they acted in a suspicious manner, according to the arresting officers. They are being held while officers investigate the ownership of the automobile in which they were riding.

Federal Prisoners In County Bastile

The Orange county jail population was swelled to 193 prisoners with the bringing of 48 federal prisoners here from San Diego late yesterday. All but one of the prisoners were men.

At the present time there are 88 federal prisoners in jail here, 13 prisoners charged with felonies and 75 prisoners in jail on misdemeanor charges.

The crowded condition of the San Diego jail was given as the reason for the transfer of the 48 federal to this jail.

GARDEN GROVE BUSINESS MEN REPORT THEFTS

The sheriff's office today was investigating two burglaries staged at Seventeenth street and the Garden Grove road some time last night, when articles were stolen from the G and M market, operated by G. H. Coe, of Garden Grove, and the Dobyns Service station, operated by J. Dobyns.

Cigarettes worth $20, several inner tubes worth $30, a tire, oil, tobacco and automobile accessories, together with a small amount of gasoline script were reported stolen from the service station, according to a report made by A. L. Steward, deputy sheriff, who investigated today.

At the grocery store three 100-pound sacks of potatoes, four gallons of elder, a half gallon of grape juice, a stalk of bananas and a number of jars of honey were reported stolen. Entrance into the grocery was made through a rear door after the door had been forced open. The thieves entered the service station by forcing the front door, it was reported.

Carey, who held the title in his name and who since has died.

Charging wilful neglect and failure to provide, Marie May has filed suit for divorce from James L. May. They were married in 1910 and separated in 1928. They have two children.

Assets of the Sarah E. Cook estate, consisting of notes, mortgage certificates, personal property and real estate, valued at $20,000, was shown in the inventory and appraisal which has been filed with County Clerk J. M. Backs by John N. Anderson, tax appraiser. William H. and Walter A. Cook are executors of the will.

George W. Carter and his wife have filed a suit against James E. Duplessis, et al, asking a decree of quiet title to property in Anaheim.

Judge James L. Allen yesterday granted a decree of quiet title to the Veterans' Welfare board of the state of California after a hearing on the action filed by the board against Oscar N. Lavenand, et al. The property involved is located at Garden Grove.

MISS RAYMOND RITES WEDNESDAY

Funeral services are to be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at Winbiger's chapel for Miss Marcia Raymond, who passed away Friday at Selma, Calif. The deceased was a sister of the Rev. R. R. Raymond, formerly of Santa Ana, and aunt of the Rev. C. R. Gray, who at one time was the pastor of the Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church, South, here.

Miss Raymond was a resident of this city some years ago but recently has lived in Los Angeles and Tujunga. Relatives of the deceased in this city are R. R. Raymond, city employee, a nephew, and Miss Ruth Hulse, 1133 South Ross street, a niece.

Funeral services are to be conducted by the Rev. C. M. Aker, of the Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church, South.

Montebello Man In County Jail

Wanted in Laguna Beach on a charge of issuing an alleged fictitious check, Henry Elve Garrett, 32, of 1315 Beverly boulevard, Montebello, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Humiston and Steward at his home late yesterday and brought to the county jail.

Garrett was arrested on a warrant from Laguna Beach, where he is said to have given a "no fund" check several days ago.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

Life is so full of demands and of activities that your eyes are God vouchsafes and your eyes fail to observe the signs of His presence and the guideposts along the way.
The death of the one you love creates a sudden stillness and you cease to watch the hurrying world. Then you learn many for a rounded life.
There is a discipline of spirit, a presence and of the sufficiency of God and, above all, a constantly deepening understanding of His "unutterable tenderness" which will abide in your heart and bring you peace and peace forever.

RAYMOND—In Selma, Calif., December 20, Marisa Raymond, aged 83 years. She is survived by her brother, the Rev. R. R. Raymond, of Melrose, N. M.; one niece, Mrs. G. F. STOCKHOLDERS TO GET MONEY EARLY IN 1931

Stockholders of the First National bank on the first of the year will receive the usual semi-annual dividend of 9 per cent on the par value of their shares. It was revealed today by A. J. Cruickshank, president of the financial institution.
Cruickshank said that despite the depressed times the local bank had enjoyed a successful year. The dividend checks will be mailed on December 31 to ap- proximately 400 stockholders, nearly all of whom reside in Orange county. The total distribution will be $65,500.
The Farmers and Merchants Savings bank, which is owned by the stockholders of the First National, also has had a prosperous year, according to Alex Brown- ridge, cashier. The directors of the bank have declared the usual semi-annual dividend of $15,000, which goes into the earnings of the First National bank and which is distributed through the latter institution.

CHARLES LEWIS PASSES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

After an illness of more than a year, Charles M. Lewis, 79, 614 Bush street, passed away yesterday at his home. Mr. Lewis came to Santa Ana in 1907, living here the greater part of the time since then with the exception of a few years which he spent in Long Beach.
Funeral services will be held to- morrow at 11 a. m. at the Harrell and Brown Funeral home, 116 West Seventeenth street with the Rev. Perry Schrock, of the First Congrega- tional church, officiating.
Surviving Mr. Lewis are one daughter, Mrs. Chester M. Scott, of Santa Ana, one step-son, W. A. Spencer, of Pennsylvania; three grandchildren, Marguerite, Alice and Charles Scott, and one sister, Mrs. Elmina Ballard, of Penn- sylvania.
Mr. Lewis was a member of the Modern Woodmen lodge and of the United Presbyterian church of this city, for many years. The graveside services will be conducted by mem- bers of the lodge. Pall bearers are to be former neighbors of Mr. Lewis at Charles City, Ia., the men all coming to California about the same time. The pall bearers will be Joseph Bickness, Marshall Dunning, Wade Spence, Will Miller, Charles Angell and Calvin Powers.
Mr. Lewis was a native of Penn- sylvania.

BOY PRODIGY RETURNS HOME

The legal battle which has raged about Ruggiero Ricci, the boy violin prodigy, since last spring, has been settled. This pic- ture shows Ruggiero (at right) and his brother Giorgio at home with their father, Pietro Ricci, in New York. CRASH VICTIM RECOVERS AS OFFICER SEEKS STRETCHER, BUT FAILS TO MAKE ESCAPE

Police Officer Charles Wolford staged a "Charlie Pad- dock" last night in running down Grant Langseth, of Santa Ana, Route No. 4, who took "wings" after the officer had rushed him to the Orange County hospital, believing him to have been seriously hurt in an automobile accident.

Because the officer proved so fast on his feet, Langseth spent last night in the county jail instead of the county hospital and today in Judge J. P. Talbot's court was sentenced to pay a fine of $200 or stay 100 days in the county jail, on a charge of reckless driving.
Police were called to 215 South Main street at 8:30 p. m. yesterday when it was reported there had been an automobile accident and a man seriously injured. Officers Wolford and Harry Prichard answered the call. They found Langseth stretched out on the pavement, apparently seriously in- jured.

Wolford bundled the man into a police car and rushed to the hos- pital. As he sped along, the "in- jured" man kept moaning, "not so fast, you're hurting me." Wolford slowed down. On reaching the hospital the officer asked the man if he could carry him in. "No, you'd better get a stretcher," Langseth answered. The officer complied.

After telling hospital attaches that a man was in his car seri- ously injured, and ordering a stretcher, the officer returned to the car to see if he could ease the pain some- what before the stretcher arrived. The car door was open and the "patient" was gone.

Wolford looked around and saw a fleeting figure in the distance, headed down the state highway. Then he started running with such speed that Langseth was soon caught and a Notre Dame surefire tackle brought him down.

The officer then placed the erst- while patient in his car, turned around and the next stop was at the county jail. Here a doctor ex- amined Langseth and pronounced him drunk, so Wolford immediately swore to a complaint charging driv- ing an automobile while under the influence of liquor. This charge was reduced to reckless driving in court today.

Langseth's car ran into a pile of sand at the side of the street which caused the accident on South Main street.

FAMILY GIVEN AID AS RESULT OF NEWS STORY

Santa Ana has a heart. Real need makes it appeal.

The story published in yesterday's Register concerning the need of one destitute family discovered through the city free employment office brought immediate response. Offers of help were promptly given, and better still, work was offered.

One lady phoned in offering a bag of potatoes, another had beans and onions, and others offered to supply any sort of groceries required. The Rice Shoe store called up to say that if the children of the family in question would come to the store, they would be outfitted with new shoes as a Christmas gift. Adequate temporary relief has been given to this family, but the only real relief for this and for many others will be in the form of employment. For this family is one that does not seek charity, and their reluctance to accept aid was the reason for their dire extremity. It was explained at the employment bureau.

But the appeal had other good results. Up to 9 a. m. today, when the city employment office had been open for only one hour, Mrs.

Belle Spangler, in charge of the office, reported that she already had six calls for workers, which she filled immediately. These six jobs, reported in one hour this morning, were more than have come in during some entire days of the past week.

Calvert Is Freed On Theft Charge

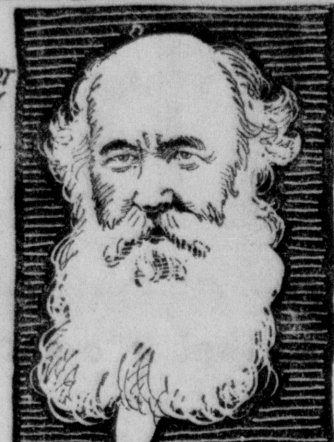

S. B. Calvert, who was charged with grand theft, was exonerated of guilt by the jury which heard the evidence in the court of Judge H. G. Ames yesterday. The jury required just five minutes to reach its verdict of not guilty, which was reported to the court at 2:57 p. m. yesterday. The defendant and his wife were charged jointly with the theft of an automobile belonging to E. F. Wallen, of Placentia.

Music Classes Enjoy Unique Setting of Holiday Party

Complimenting her vocal pupils Miss Lorene Croddy planned a clever park party as a feature of the holiday entertaining, choosing the big dance pavilion at Orange county park as a setting for a unique Yuletide festivity. Pupils and their parents to the number of 100, gathered for the evening, finding the pavilion hung with garlands and greenery, brightened by a glittering Christmas tree, and warmed by the fire blazing merrily away on the wide hearth.

For the entertainment feature, the hostess had planned a program in which all her pupils took part, and which opened with a song by the "Youngest Quartet," composed of Rosine Ray, Virginia Preble, Frances Irwin and Barbara Watson. Other numbers included those by Junior Kavanaugh, Mildred White, Hugh Plumb, Jeannette Kint, Helen Marshall, Lois Murray, Ruth Crowl, George Bonecutter, Cloy Francis, Damaris Sears, Ed Rogers and Elfreda Irwin; the "Mothers' Sextet" composed of Mesdames Kay, Irwin, Bonecutter, Marshall, White and Gwylliam, and the "Melody Boys," Bobby Alexander, Hugh Plumb, Bob Pankey, Louis Riehl, Tommy Whitmore, Billy Leinberger, Junior Kavanaugh, Keith Kavanaugh, Junior Sudbrook, Harold Matthews, Paul Francis, Homer Hannaford, Tommy Croddy and Bernard Fields.

Old-fashioned games in which everybody, old and young, took active part, were followed by refreshments of sandwiches, hot chocolate and coffee, angel food cake and candy, enjoyed outside the pavilion around the big grates of the park, and a gift exchange when the merry-makers returned to the pavilion, brought the evening to a close.

Miss Croddy's gift to each pupil, was a music portfolio decorated with a pen drawing, and she in turn, was showered with pretty presents from the young people.

The families enjoying this unique form of holiday hospitality were those of S. J. Francis, Joseph L. Marshall, J. H. Plumb, Bud Hannaford, W. M. Alexander, Linley Ray, Crowl, F. C. Matthews, William Leinberger, Thomas Whitmore, Cash Kavanaugh, Sudbrook, C. J. Klatt, Alex Brownridge, H. P. Pankey, Owen Murray, Charles Bonecutter.

Miss Croddy was assisted by Mrs. Thomas S. Croddy, Mrs. Francis Faye Irwin, Mrs. Cash Kavanaugh.

Bridge Club Members Have Luncheon With Mrs. Gajeski

Mrs. J. A. Gajeski was hostess to members of her bridge club Saturday afternoon when she entertained in her home on West Sixth street. Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock with a Christmas tree and sprays of cotoneaster forming an attractive setting.

In the games of the afternoon Mrs. Don Hilliard and Mrs. Eugene Robinson scored first and second high, and Mrs. Charles Adams low.

Those present, other than Mrs. Gajeski were Mesdames Don Hilliard, Warren Hilliard, Claude Sleeper, John Backus, Calvin Powers, Clarence Seales, Eugene Robinson, William Penn, Leo Schmeideberger, Charles Adams, Edwin McFadden and Arthur Trawick.

Ebell Section Members Observe Christmas at Recent Meeting

Members of the Sixth Household Economies section of the Ebell society held a most interesting meeting recently when they met in the clubhouse for luncheon. Mrs. P. A. Robinson, Mrs. W. A. Taylor and Mrs. H. T. Trueblood were hostesses. Christmas decorations prevailed, and included a large tree near which the gift exchange took place. The program was given at an early hour and included a lovely vocal solo by Mrs. Charles Brisco, and group singing by all of the members present.

During the business session of the day Mrs. Frank H. Paterson presided. Responses were most interesting, and considered Christmas customs in many lands.

Eleventh Birthday Is Occasion For Party

In observance of her eleventh birthday anniversary little Miss Velma Watson was made honoree at a recent merry birthday party given by her mother, Mrs. Lloyd Watson, in her home in Diamond Park.

Interesting games were played until late afternoon, when refreshments were served to Eula Persinger, Dorothy Dunkin, Maxine McKellar, Eva Winkler, Dorothy Privett, Maybell Walker, Pauline Privett, Celene Brown, Eva Larsen, Norma Rogers, Bethel and date.

L. A. PRODUCE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 23.—(UP)—Today's trading was slow to moderate and prices showed comparatively little change on the Los Angeles fruit and produce market today.

Best frost-free Davenport and Salinas artichokes were 4.25 a box for the 48 and 60 sizes, with frosted stock in the same sizes at 3.50-3.75. Loose Puente and Puebla avocados were 22-25c.

Spinach brought mostly 15-20c per doz bunches with a little fancy at 25-30c, while a little loose Imperial Valley Spinach was sold at 50-75c, with a few at $1.00.

Local cabbage held at 50-65c per crate, with a few at 75-80c. Local Cauliflower cleaned up well with prices for good snowball 75-85c a crate.

Hearts in lettuce crates were 60-65c. Imperial valley cucumbers held about steady at 1.50-1.75 a lug for fair quality stock. Cachelia valley eggplant was 8-10c a lb., for good stock.

Grapes were a little firmer, fresh arrivals of Emperors from the San Joaquin valley bringing 2-2 1/2c a lb., with Malagas from cold storage at mostly 2 1/2c and some held higher. Grapefruit remained unchanged, fancy Imperial valley fruit jobbing at 2.75-3.00 a crate, with a few brought in loose and packed locally at 2.50-2.75 a crate.

Best San Diego dry pack lettuce was mostly 1.75 a crate with a few at $2.00. Loose choice and standard navel oranges from Tulare county and Southern California were 1.50-1.75 a box for good large stock down to 1.00-1.25 for small fruit with very small as low as 50c.

Summer squash was $2.00-2.25 and a few at $2.50. Local Jersey sweet potatoes held steady at 65-75c a lug. Tangerines were very dull, Imperial valley fruit bringing 4 1/2-5c a lb., with Bakersfield and Arizona fruit at 3 1/2-4 1/2c. A few Mexican tomatoes were sold at 15-17c a lb., for 1-2 1/2 striped stock.

Albert Watson and Velma Watson.

Of interest to the assembled children was the fact that the birthday of one of the guests, Eva Persinger, occurred on the same date.

APPRAISAL ON LAND FAILS TO SATISFY OWNER

Property owners entering into agreements with the city for acquisition of portions of their property for street improvement purposes should be willing to stand by the same, it was announced last night by the city councilmen when Charles E. Chatlain, 116 East Santa Clara, declined to accept an appraisal made by a board of referees for a small portion of the corner of his property located at Bush and Santa Clara, needed by the city for straightening out El Portal street.

To avoid condemnation proceedings, the city and Chatlain agreed to abide by the findings of a board of referees, councilmen said. City Attorney Charles Swanner named J. S. Wallace referee, and Chatlain named Joe S. Mitchener. Both referees named P. G. Beisel as the third member. Wallace and Beisel brought in a report, recommended that Chatlain be awarded $142 for the property taken from his lot, whereas Mitchener brought in a minority report placing the damage at $446.42.

Chatlain told the council that he would not accept the award made him by the board of referees, which, he explained, also would be rejected by the party holding a mortgage on the place.

CORY OUTLINES BEST CONTROL FOR TERMITES

Assistant Farm Advisor W. M. Cory delivered an address over KREG last night in which he discussed termites and termite damage. After giving a general outline of the insects, their habits, social instincts and anatomy, Cory limited his discussion to the three classes of termites of importance to California. He explained that there are 13 species of the insects found here but that for the purpose of his discussion they could be divided into three habit groups, including the damp wood termites, dry wood termites and subterranean termites.

The damp wood termites, he said, are the largest and commonly are found in logs and moist or decaying wood in or on the ground. Next to the subterranean termite, the dry wood termite is the most important economically, living in dry, sound wood. Since it requires no ground connection and enters the wood in the winged form, its prevention and control present entirely different and in some ways more difficult problems than those presented by the subterranean insect, Cory stated.

Living largely in the ground and building covered runways over impenetrable foundations in order to reach wood above the ground, the subterranean termites are responsible for a major portion of the trouble in most states, according to the speaker. They attack sound or decaying wood.

After explaining indications of termite attack, Cory outlined means of prevention by chemical treatment, pointing out, however, that proper construction of buildings is the best insurance against attacks. In concluding his talk Cory said that the most satisfactory method of preventing damage by the sub-

DOC AND RAY WILL PLAY ON KREG PROGRAM

Doc and Ray, known as the Vibra Banjo duo, will entertain for KREG listeners tonight. They will be on the air from 7 to 7:30 p. m. with the type of music which has made their organization one of the most popular on the Santa Ana radio station.

Estelle Card Beeman, reading "Treasured Poems of Heart and Home," and the Diamond Bootie record program will provide high class features of tonight's program. Estelle Card Beeman will be on the air from 7:30 to 8 p. m. and the Diamond Bootie record program will be heard from 8 to 9 p. m.

An all request record program will be broadcast from 9 to 10 p. m. The Shoppers' Guide, with music, will be on the air from 6 to 6:45 p. m. From 6:45 to 7 p. m. news of the day will be read.

EL MODENA

EL MODENA, Dec. 23.—G. W. Huffman recently arrived here from Missouri to spend several months with his daughter, Mrs. George Dollard.

Mrs. Marion Jones and little son, Robert, spent Friday in Los Angeles.

Dorothy Alma Gray spent Thursday and Friday in Whittier as the guest of her sister, Miss Ruby Gray.

Paul Ingram, who makes his home with Mr. and Mrs. George Dollard, is spending two weeks in Los Angeles with his father.

Miss Edith Stoner, first grade teacher in the Lincoln building, spent Thursday night with her sister, Miss Ruth Stoner, at Pomona college. The Misses Stoner will spend their vacation with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Stoner.

TALBERT

TALBERT, Dec. 23.—Mrs. Boyd Davidson, of Sherman, New York, aunt of Mrs. John Sauters, who has been visiting here, has gone to Riverside to visit other relatives and from there will leave for Spokane.

The 20 acres of land belonging to Mr. Spoonhower was acquired this week by a Japanese rancher, the deal being made through a Long Beach realtor. The property is located off Varana road to west.

Mr. and Mrs. John Pettit, of Whittier, and Mr. and Mrs. William Brady and two children, of Hollywood, were guests for a day in the home of relatives, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Talbert.

Several Talbert people attended on Thursday morning at Costa Mesa the funeral of Mrs. A. M. White. Mrs. White, whose death occurred suddenly Saturday, was an active member of the Missionary society of the Greenville and Talbert churches and held the office of secretary of literature in the society.

The streets in the Colonia Juarez Mexican subdivision belonging to Ashby Turner are being given a coat of oil. The entire place has been disced and cleaned up.

A. Kato, Japanese rancher, who has been on the Leervain ranch, moved his building and belongings this week to the Swift ranch, which he will farm.

The death of Mrs. Ben Cousyn Wednesday came as a shock to her family and friends, her illness having lasted but about one week. Mrs. Cousyn for the last year had cared for her husband, Mr. Cousyn, who has been in ill health following an illness and operation. Heart trouble was the cause of Mrs. Cousyn's death, which occurred at the family home on the Talbert dairy ranch where she was cared for by her family and a nurse in her last illness. Mrs. Cousyn was a native of Holland and had been in America but a few years.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Bushard attended the joint chamber of commerce banquet in Huntington Beach.

Mrs. John F. Sauters has been confined at her home with influenza. Her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Cecil Sauters, of Huntington Beach, spent Tuesday at the Sauters home caring for the patient. Mrs. Sauters is now improved.

Thirteen men of this district were initiated into the Santa Ana parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West at the meeting held Monday evening. Two more local men have in applications and it is expected they will be initiated December 29. Local men joining included L. J. Bushard, W. H. Jones, Harry Fulton, Frank Walker, Walter Giesler, Harold Giesler, Allen Giesler, Ivan Harper, Donald Harper, Hugh Saulsbury and Will Starkey.

Wednesday being Mrs. L. J. Bushard's birthday anniversary, her daughter, Miss Fay Bushard, entertained with a dinner party in the family home, the guests enjoying the sumptuous chicken dinner including Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ward of Halbert, Walter Griffin of Midway City, their own guests, Mrs. Bushard, Mr. Bushard, Louise Bushard and Miss Fay Bushard. Pretty decorations were arranged by the hostess. Mrs. Bushard was aware that her daughter was preparing a supper for her anniversary but the inviting of the guests was kept a secret from her until their arrival. A pleasant social evening followed the dinner party.

Several former local friends and neighbors of Casper Borchard, who for many years was one of Talbert's well known ranchers, attended the funeral of Mr. Borchard, which was held the first of the week at Oxnard, where his death occurred. It has been many years since Mr. Borchard resided in this community. Mr. Borchard was a native of Iowa and was married to Mrs. Robert Giesler and Allen Giesler, of this place, with Samuel Giesler, of Santa Ana, motored to Oxnard for the services.

Miss Irene Tredichick, of Los Angeles, visited Wednesday in the home of a friend, Mrs. Harvey Warner.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lacabanne spent Monday evening as guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lemke in Olive.

LA HABRA

LA HABRA, Dec. 23.—Mr. and Mrs. Jack Whittaker left Sunday morning for several days stay with friends at Fresno. They traveled part way over the Ridge route and decided that the cold trip so made the return trip that afternoon.

Mrs. Tacy Bristow and son, Everett, of Long Beach, have been spending the past week at the C. L. Strong home.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller have left for Keeler, near Lone Pine to spend the holidays in the Laurence Miller home.

Robert Phillips left Saturday evening for Adrian, N. D., after spending several weeks here with relatives. As a farewell courtesy, Mrs. C. L. Strong entertained with a chicken dinner at her home Friday evening. The dinner also marked the fifth wedding anniversary of her niece, Mrs. Gurnard Beer, and husband and the tenth wedding anniversary of her nephew, U. R. Phillips, and wife. Seated at the table were Mr. and Mrs. Gurnard Beer and daughter, Nancy; Mr. and Mrs. U. R. Phillips and children, Robert Phillips and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Strong.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Hansen, of East Central avenue, will have as their guests for the holidays, Mrs. Hansen's sister, Mrs. Anna Van Dousen, and two children and her brother, Harold Koster, and wife, all of San Francisco.

Mrs. William Snow spent the week end at Redlands with her son, Varney Snow, who resides there.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Morris and daughter, Margaret Lucy, with Dr. J. Kirk, of Portland, Texas, spent the week end at the G. F. Walker home. They toured the Hollywood and Beverly Hills district and the beaches during their visit.

The Misses Emily and Lena Fritz, of Los Angeles, will spend the holidays here with their sister, Mrs. C. E. Varney.

Mrs. C. E. Varney entertained with a delightful party at her home on South Hiatt street Friday evening. Her guests were son, Francis, and daughter, Ruth; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Henri Clayton and daughter, Doris, and Carl Myers. Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Garretson and family will spend the holidays with Mrs. Garretson's sister, Mrs. F. W. Johnson, at San Bernardino. Mrs. A. B. Thurnher and Alex Forcus and family visited Mrs. Forcus at the Norwalk hospital Sunday.

Fashion Looks to the New Year

Only in neckline and sleeve line can you distinguish differences in the cut of winter styles for the chilly north and sunny south

I. Vionnet made this rose crepe dress which Bergdorf-Goodman features with kappap hat and beige shoes.

II. green polka dots splash this Palm Beach frock which Bergdorf-Goodman says is cool but opaque, making a slip unnecessary.

III. there is spring chic in this lace wool frock of burgundy by Bonwit-Teller.

by Julia

IV. diagonal tucking is a novelty of Lanvin's blue wool frock imported by Bonwit-Teller.

V. Bonwit-Teller strike an intriguing note in this black and white suit with its oxfords and beret.

ANOTHER year appears on the horizon. New Year's resolutions are in order.

So are New Year's clothes, for it is so much easier to carry out any resolutions, old or new, if you are dressed beautifully and feel all set up.

Whether you go south or stay north a new little frock or two will renew your spirits and put you in the mood to face another year.

If you are going south, you must think of bright sunshine and white sands. White clothes, sunny yellow clothes, gay green ones are in order.

If you stay north, remember that a bright, warm color such as red, burgundy, tawny gold or rich blue or brown will add cheer to what might otherwise be a snowy scene.

If you go south, you will need a hat, but no coat, to top your frock. If you stay north, you must get the kinds of frocks that go beautifully under the fur coat or the cloth coat with fur trim.

WHETHER you go south or stay north, however, you will be surprised at how similar in cut are the new dresses.

Molded lines, not too much length, belts or belt lines and some skirt fullness. The place they are noticeably different—and for a reason—is the neckline. And the sleeves, too, come in for their portion of originality.

Necklines have taken unto themselves the power to give frocks their character or that. A dress may be demurely young or sophisticatedly mature, just by the change in neckline. It may be a smart dressy dress or a tailored one, in like measure by the variety of neckline it affords.

IF you are something of a sophisticate, you will want a tailored frock for daytime wear in the land of the palms.

A rose canton crepe dress, beautifully tailored in a new Vionnet line, is perfect for your purposes. It has that diagonal cut to it that is vastly flattering and graceful. The new Vionnet neckline drapes softly to the side, maintaining the graciousness of the original cowl but adding just that touch of difference that is important.

This rose frock has its sleeves and neck yoke cut in one piece. It has long sleeves that puff at the cuff and gather into narrow bands at the wrist. And a sweet sash belt that ties into a perky bow at one side.

With it, a natural kappap straw hat that flares from the face and yet furnishes quite a bit of shade for the eyes, has an amusing feather ornament in shades of rose, tan and brown, and is banded in the brown.

IF you are a young girl going south, you will want the simplest of necklines on your morning dresses and sports frocks.

Something that dots its way to the top of the list of chic things is a white rayon flat crepe frock with huge polka dots of green. It is a new material of heavy enough weight to make it unnecessary to wear a slip with it, which makes for coolness when you are in the land of hot sunshine.

The dots are huge, much larger than last year's coin dots. The dots are cut out, and applied on to make a chain of spots about the neckline and the cute cap sleeves, and a belt, too. It is a most effective trim. So simple, yet so chic. It makes it optional whether to wear a necklace or not. Certainly a necklace isn't needed to give this little frock a place in the sun at Palm Beach.

With it, a white Panama hat has a wide brim, cut into a fancy pleated effect in the back. Shoes of white suede and green kidskin are very new. They have open-work suede for their main part and tips and a tiny line up the front, like a narrow tongue, of the green kidskin.

IF you are staying north, you will find yourself aided and abetted in carrying out your New Year's resolution to make-good-on-the-job by a tailored lace wool frock, in rich burgundy color. It is a smart little frock, with a very unusual collar, which starts out like a coat collar and then develops ripping jabot revers. It fastens over on one side, in the new modified Russian manner, and uses matching bone buttons to close it. The sleeves button shut at the wrist with a single big bone button and there is a burgundy-colored patent leather belt with a round buckle just the shape of the buttons. A single pocket, put on in slanting fashion, is an aid to chic and useful to hold a hanky.

IF you are a tailored woman, you will be pleased with a blue crepe wool frock, a Lanvin model in the cheery blue that is so good for winter and so effective under a tweed or fur coat.

This frock is distinguished by its diagonal tucking which is emphasized by its diagonal half-collar of white silk pique. The collar treatment is very tailored and yet softly feminine because while it has a stitched self band on one side, this white collar begins at the other shoulder, slips under the plain banding and falls into a side jabot. Three bone buttons, in the dress' blue fasten the collar in place.

There is a normal waistline, belted with a blue crepe belt and one pocket, made in the first band of diagonally stitched banding.

IF you are the ingenue type and need some smart frock to wear under a short fur jacket or a broadtail coat, there is a most suitable one to be had in black wool jersey with an original neckline in white that is half and half—the right side and back of white angora wool, the front and left side of embroidered daisies, done in the white wool.

This frock has one of the new wide necked V cuts for its neckline, with the front point quite low. It has three-quarters sleeves, also a new style feature, with white cuffs topped by white daisies. There is an unusual hip adornment on this frock. Across each hip, rounding up to the waistline and down again in the back, a little braided trim of the material is posed. At each end there is a little white ornament, like a bell.

A black suede beret, white suede gloves and black oxfords in an afternoon cut, are suitable accessories for this trim costume.

HENRY A. NEFF, 71, DIES IN ANAHEIM

ANAHEIM, Dec. 23.—Henry Allen Neff, 71, a native of Glencoe, Ohio, a resident of Anaheim for the past 17 years, passed away early Sunday morning at the family home at 408 East Sycamore street.

He had been engaged in ranching since coming to California. He was a member of Centerville Lodge of the F. and A. M., Centerville, Ohio, and of the Commandery of the Knights Templar of Balaia, Ohio.

Surviving Mr. Neff are his widow, Mrs. Ida M. Neff; one daughter, Mrs. Fred Sidebottom; one son, Carl L. Neff, and one sister, Mrs. Dorcas Thompson, all of Anaheim.

Funeral services were held at the Backs, Terry and Campbell funeral chapel Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock and were conducted by the Rev. Ralph W. Lee, pastor of the White Temple Methodist church, of which the deceased was a member. Interment was made in Fairhaven cemetery. Pall bearers were A. W. Reeves, J. B. Stewart, E. M. Schlotter, E. A. Hatfield, H. S. Jayne and Warren Mathis.

BREA

BREA, Dec. 23.—Mrs. Isaac Craig is confined to her home with a badly sprained right knee, the result of a fall down a short flight of steps at the American Legion hall.

Mr. Henhoff's sister, Mrs. H. A. Stegeman, and husband, and with the families of a niece and nephew, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Templeman and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stegeman. They plan to be here about a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Smith are enjoying a visit from a sister of the former, who arrived here recently from her home in Oklahoma and who expects to be in Southern California for several weeks.

Mrs. Lottie Hume is visiting relatives near Fresno and enjoying her stay on a ranch. W. Schaumhoff visited here several days with her daughter, Mrs. Harry Yarborough, and family, returning to his home in Sacramento Saturday.

Miss Miriam Cumlin, who recently moved with her family from Brea to Southgate, visited here the last of the week at the A. E. Zerbe home on South Walnut.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Taylor and two sons have returned to their ranch property in Tulare county following a residence of several months in Brea. They have been living in the Harvey Countess property on South Walnut street.

Mrs. A. R. Burns, of San Bernardino, was an over night guest of Mrs. George Friend Friday, motoring to her home the next day. On Thursday night Mrs. Burns was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Gerhart and on Friday afternoon visited in the L. A. Stumbo home.

Mrs. Eda Hurst has returned to her beach cottage at Balboa after a business trip to Brea. Mrs. Hurst is resting and recuperating from an illness at her beach home.

Mrs. Bud Baker has returned to her home here after an absence of five weeks during which she visited with relatives in San Jose. Mr. Baker motored to San Jose Saturday and returned with his wife Sunday.

Mrs. R. W. Spensley and son,

Richard Spensley, visited in Long Beach Saturday at the home of Mrs. Spensley's niece, Mrs. Hugh Davies, in Brea. They have been living in the Harvey Countess property on South Walnut street.

Mrs. Ted Craig entertained at her home on West Cedar street Friday evening, members of the O.O.O. club being her guests. Bridge was played during the evening and refreshments and an exchange of Christmas gifts enjoyed following the playing.

A brilliantly lighted Christmas tree, tall red tapers and English holly, sent the hostess by friends in Washington, aided in the seasonal decorations of the room.

Those playing were Mesdames George Friend, L. A. Stumbo, Floyd LeGrafte, Stella Keene, E. H. Templeman, Harry Yarborough, Jerry Bennett, George Gesme, Leora Cumlin, Southgate; Mrs. A. R. Murns, San Bernardino; Mrs. C. J. Leimer, Santa Ana, and Miss Viva Schoff. Mrs. Gesme and Mrs. Cumlin were awarded first and consolation prizes. Mrs. Burns will entertain the club in January at her home in San Bernardino.

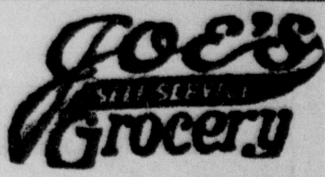

Some time during January at theater and dinner party planned first for this month will be enjoyed in Los Angeles.

FACTS WORTH KNOWING

TURKEYS

There are always six grades of turkeys: FANCY, PRIME, CHOICE, MEDIUM, No. 2 and OVER ONE YEAR OLD. Each grade has a separate cost. This year there is nine cents per pound difference between the fancy grade and the No. 2 grade. For our Christmas and New Year's Day trade we have the prize flock from Dr. Barnett's ranch.

If you were fortunate enough to have had a turkey from this market Thanksgiving, you will be pleased to learn that we have birds of equal quality for this holiday—come and look them over.

Late News From Orange County Communities

NEW OFFICERS INSTALLED BY EASTERN STAR

LA HABRA, Dec. 23.—Two hundred and fifty Masons, Eastern Star members and friends were present at the installation of the Eastern Star officers Saturday night.

Mrs. Lois Davis was installed as worthy matron by the outgoing matron, Mrs. Ruth Davis, and Mrs. Joanna Willits, past matrons of Puente. The new matron is a niece of Mrs. Willits. Mrs. Estelle Regan, deputy of La Habra chapter, installed Miss Dorothy Doane as associate matron and Miss Ruth Lana as conductress.

Other officers installed were the organist, Mrs. Anna Renken; Mrs. Myrtle Armstrong, marshal; and Mrs. Anna Overman, chaplain, installed by Mrs. Davis; the five star points, Ada, Gertrude, Holcomb, Ruth, Marion Fortson; Esther, Chloe Bille; Martha, Rosetta Kootz; Electa, Helen Lana; warder, Alice Journean; sentinel, Gordon Cameron, installed by Mrs. Grace Gamble.

Claude Ridgeway, 1930 patron, installed George Eaby as worthy patron and Homer Holzgrafe as associate patron. Carrie Drake, of Yorba Linda, acted as accompanist for the evening and Mrs. Rose Mahoney read for the star points. John Newton, of Whittier, sang two numbers preceding the service. Seven matrons and past patrons with seven patrons of visiting lodges were escorted to seats of honor during the evening. Among these guests were Mrs. Minnie Fyle, sponsor of the 1931 Matrons' association of Orange county, and Stella Shultz, deputy grand matron of the 56th district, Gordon Cameron gave a short address of welcome.

Methodist Church Of Tustin Arranges Xmas Eve Program

TUSTIN, Dec. 23.—The local Methodist church will hold its Christmas entertainment in the church Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. Every one is invited to attend.

CARDS FRAMED

SAN CLEMENTE, Dec. 23.—Christmas cards that become framed pictures is a fad here. Cards sent out by Mr. and Mrs. A. Travaglini and Mr. and Mrs. Ole Hanson Jr. have been framed by receivers and now are attractive pictures in many San Clemente homes.

The Travaglini card was a reproduction of an Italian etching while the Hanson greeting was a portrait of an old time couple.

Children Guests At Theater Party Set for Wednesday

FULLERTON, Dec. 23.—With the Fullerton post of the American Legion and the Fox Mission theater as the hosts, children of Fullerton will be guests at a theater party tomorrow afternoon.

The party, which has become an annual event, attracted more than 1600 children last year.

MOTHER OF BANKER PASSES IN ANAHEIM

ANAHEIM, Dec. 23.—Mrs. Gertrude L. Benjamin, mother of Horace H. Benjamin, prominent Anaheim banker, passed away early Sunday morning at the family home at 521 Zeyn street.

The Benjamin family came to Anaheim from South Dakota at which time Mr. Benjamin, deceased, purchased the First National bank of Anaheim, of which Mrs. Benjamin was a member of the First Presbyterian church of the city.

She is survived by her son, vice president of the Bank of America, Anaheim, and a brother and two sisters in the east.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Backs, Terry and Campbell funeral chapel with burial in the family crypt in Fairhaven cemetery. The Rev. Thomas H. Walker conducted the funeral services.

Pal bearers were S. C. Hartman, Leonard Evans, Arthur G. Porter, E. M. Hall, Harry Perker, Don F. Harrison, all, with the exception of Mr. Evans, old time friends in South Dakota.

BUENA PARK

BUENA PARK, Dec. 23.—Mrs. C. V. Black and Mrs. S. J. Coughran and sons, Eugene, Charles and Sammie, attended the Christmas celebration in Anaheim Saturday evening.

Roy Walker is visiting friends in Garden Grove for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. James Pederson and daughter, Mrs. Santa Ana, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Smith of Crescent street, Sunday.

Mrs. C. W. Middleton is seriously ill with pneumonia at her home on West Eleventh street.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Frohn and son, Robert, were visitors in Anaheim Sunday.

The Rev. Burton Y. Neal had Christmas packages valued at $12 stolen from his car while parked for a short time in Los Angeles Saturday afternoon.

Robert Thomas, Calvin McAnear, Richard Potter and Franklin Sullivan were swimming at Sled hill Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Anna Ruth McKenzie and Mrs. Ida Ramirez went to San Fernando Sunday to take supplies for the Christmas party for the veterans. Mrs. McKenzie is president of the Buena Park American legion auxiliary and Mrs. Ramirez is president of the Garden Grove unit and resided in Buena Park.

Mrs. E. E. Thurman, who has been under the care of a trained nurse for some time at her home on South Grand avenue, is reported as improving.

The social hall of the Buena Park Congregational church was the scene of a happy Christmas party Friday evening, when over 150 children of the junior department were entertained by Fred Bastady, general superintendent; Mrs. Rose Hartman, Mrs. C. E. Reid, Mrs. Justin Spohn, Mrs. C. H. Brown, Mrs. Bessie Jaynes, Mrs. Floyd Neal, Mrs. John Mitchell, Mrs. Fred Bastady, James Bacon, Roland Upton, Carl Bastady and Mrs. Jesse Gill, teachers and superintendent of the junior department.

A lighted Christmas tree and decorations of holly and poinsettias were used in the large hall where games were provided for the children and the exchange of "White Elephant" gifts furnished merry entertainment. Refreshments of homemade cakes, ice cream and candy canes were served.

The Sunday school superintendent promised the children of the department a treat if they secured 30 or more new members during the year, and as more than this number were secured the party was given.

Plans for a white Christmas in the various communities represented by members of Sylvia's Orange Blossoms were perfected at the meeting held in the Buena Park Congregational church Friday. Sixteen dollars was cleared from the bazaar held last month and this amount was used in buying

L. A. WOMAN IN CLUB ADDRESS IN COSTA MESA

COSTA MESA, Dec. 23.—"Four Gardens of Life," was the subject of one of the most interesting talks given during the club year of the Friday Afternoon club, when Mrs. Harry L. Stroh, of Los Angeles, state chairman of program service, information and reciprocity, spoke at the clubhouse to a group of 50 club members.

Christmas carols were sung by the club chorus, directed by Mrs. M. O. Wells. Mrs. A. P. Nelson, president of the club, and state chairman of industrial and social problems, spoke of the urgent need of work being given to the unemployed and urged club members to give work, even if only for a day or two to people in Costa Mesa.

A resolution was read that has been adopted by four national organizations, with 40,000,000 members, relative to married women with husbands employed, being urged to remain in the home and allow married men, widows and other heads of families to procure employment.

Eighteen new members have been received. The club is the only federated club in an unincorporated town in Orange county.

Gifts were presented to Mrs. A. P. Nelson, a gift from the Crafts section; Mrs. C. G. Huston, Crafts section leader, a gift from her class; and Mrs. M. O. Wells, Music section leader, a gift from the chorus members.

Mrs. William Whitehead of Santa Ana, county corresponding secretary; Mrs. E. J. Marks of Santa Ana, county institutional chairman; Miss Rae of Anaheim, county program chairman, Mrs. Stanley of Santa Ana Woman's club, and the speaker were among the out-of-town guests.

Kiwanians Give Musical Program

FULLERTON, Dec. 23.—Members of the Fullerton Kiwanis club were presented with gifts at noon yesterday in McFarland's cafe, with Don Jones acting as Santa Claus for the occasion.

Gifts appropriate for the various occupations of the club members were presented. Most of the gifts received by the club members were donated to the City Nurse association for use in the charitable work of that organization at Christmas.

Following the luncheon, club members presented a program of musical numbers over the public address system installed in the business district of the city. A quartet composed of Gladys Lewis, R. A. Marsden, Dwight Goodwin and A. L. Foster, sang several numbers followed by chorus numbers led by Dr. W. H. Wickert. An orchestra including Harry Lee Wilber, piano; Ted Corcoran, xylophone; William Stedman, violin; and Charles Hammons, traps, played numerous numbers on the local broadcasting system.

Provisions for the baskets to be distributed. Work on two quilts was completed Friday and the layettes on hand were completed and wrapped for distribution. The committee represented in the organization are Anaheim, Santa Ana, Fullerton, Costa Mesa, Brea and Buena Park.

The usual pot luck luncheon was served at the noon hour and birthday anniversaries of Mrs. Faye Wright, Mrs. Agnes Horn and Mrs. Marsh Thomas, of Buena Park, and Mrs. Hayson of Anaheim, were observed. Mrs. Horn and Mrs. Lotie Haggerty were hostesses for the day.

Members of the Senior Christian Endeavor society of the Buena Park Congregational church, entertained with a Christmas party in their room at the church Saturday evening. New furniture consisting of a table and benches made by the manual training department of the Grand avenue school and presented to the society during the week was on display, as were the new window drapes, and with the trimmed Christmas tree and floral decorations provided a pretty setting for the merry time enjoyed by the young people. Exchange of gifts and refreshments were features of the evening's entertainment.

Miss Mabel Looney entertained her Sunday school class of young women at her home on Marshall avenue Friday evening. Cootie furnished the evening's diversion and decorations and refreshments were appropriate to the Yuletide season.

Miss Looney was assisted in her hostess duties by her mother, Mrs. Ora Looney.

Among those present were the Misses Esther Hartman, Estelle Upshaw, Margaret Cole, Mabelle Dabney, Elsie Ashlock, Wilda Green, Mildred Crapo, Iva and Irene Thornton, Virginia Knott, Lloyd Foster, Ruth Bastady, Margaret Battelle.

WATER BREAKS INTO DEEP OIL WELL AT BEACH

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 23.—The Superior Oil company's deep test oil well at Twentieth and Walnut is wet. The company stated that it got an o. k. on the water shutoff on the six-inch casing landed below 7000 feet. A string of four-inch was then run in the well and the swab put on in an effort to bring the well in barefooted through the casing.

After five hours of swabbing, water broke in in such quantities that the fluid level could not be lowered with the swab, it was stated officially.

The four-inch casing was pulled and broken down Monday and other officials of the company are in consultation as to what the next move will be. Announcement that the cement job did not hold up under the swabbing is bad news from the deep well but does not mean that it will not finally be brought in.

It is generally believed that the Superior has a big well.

Probably 1000 people gathered at the well Sunday in expectation of seeing it blow the crown block off when the fluid level was lowered by swabbing. The well was refused to perform. It took 40 tons of barrites to hold it down when the hole was without casing.

Two blocks away the McCasland well is running out to set casing at 7185 feet. A few days more and the McCasland will get a string of casing and the sand there will have a chance to show what it can do. It is an even tussle now as to which well has the honor of first producing from the deep sand at Huntington Beach. Both wells have found the deep sand, it is claimed, with a light oil that runs about 40 gravity. The finding of this sand in the field means that sooner or later it will get other deep drillings and eventually there will be a deep oil field here.

The Huntington Beach field has been given another curtailment cut. The new cut calls for 25 per cent curtailment in production. This coming on top of the 40 per cent cut already in force here means all wells in this field are now cut 55 per cent in production and will produce only 35 per cent of their capacity. A well doing 100 barrels normally must be allowed to produce only 45 barrels.

California's total output under the new curtailment is about 500,000 barrels a day. The state uses 600,000 barrels a day normal consumption of crude oil, it is estimated. There is room under the curtailment to use up 100,000 barrels a day of storage oil, or room to bring in 100,000 barrels of foreign oil or oil from other states.

Major operating companies said there must either be a cut in production or a cut in price. So the producers took the cut in production in order to uphold the present price.

PARACHUTE IS PERFECTED BY L. A. INVENTOR

FULLERTON, Dec. 23.—Declaring that he has developed a type of parachute arrangement for use in passenger airplanes which would be regulated by the pilot of the ship, E. R. Trusty, of Los Angeles, appeared before proprietors of the Fullerton airport yesterday and explained that he is seeking a field in which to make a demonstration of his invention.

The parachute equipment which Trusty has perfected permits the pilot of a ship to unload his passengers via the parachute route against their will at any time he considers necessary by use of a simple lever in the cockpit. The advantage of the new invention, according to Trusty, is in the case of passengers who would refuse to use a parachute under any conditions even when their lives were in danger.

Although no definite announcement was made as to whether or not the local airport would be available to Trusty for his demonstration, he plans to install his equipment in a Curtis-Wright airplane and will be prepared for the demonstration in about six weeks. Trusty has made numerous inventions and is well known for his contributions in the field of aviation.

YULE PROGRAM IS STAGED BY LEGION GROUP

ORANGE, Dec. 23.—The Christmas party of the Ruby Rebekah lodge was an enjoyable event last night. A Christmas tree was prettily trimmed and popcorn balls and candy was presented to each of the 200 guests. Mrs. Ruby Lytel, Mrs. Sarah Lawton and Mrs. Carl Pister were members of the committee who made arrangements for the party and program. Dr. V. A. Wood made the opening talk.

The program included a reading by Bernice Lewellen, a tap dance by Louise Goble; piano solo, Virginia Wells; reading, Betty Roedick; reading, Marie Schryer; dance, Phyllis Kogler, who was accompanied by Maryesther Wood and numbers by a harmonica trio, Gerald Shick and his two sons.

Other numbers on the program were a violin solo by June Ragsdale. A vocal solo was given by Dorothy Ragsdale. Both were accompanied by Margaret Ragsdale. Miss Viola Schryer gave a reading; Maryesther Wood, a piano solo; Curtis Burbank a reading; George Christensen, a violin solo and Dorothy Pister, a reading.

A group of girls led by Leon Shell sang "Joy to the World," and a group of boys sang "Silent Night." Dorothy Roedick and Betty Roedick gave a piano duet and Curtis Burbank a banjo solo, accompanied by Mrs. Carl Pister. Lucille Davidson and Helen Ackley gave a song, accompanied by Leona Shell.

Last Rites For Mrs. Jackson Held In Orange Church

ORANGE, Dec. 23.—Funeral services for Mrs. Mary C. Jackson, mother of Logan Jackson, were held yesterday afternoon at the First Methodist church with the Rev. Walter Cole officiating. A large section of the church was reserved for the members of the organization of which Mrs. Jackson was a member, women of the G. A. R., Eastern Star, Ruby Rebekahs, Veteran Rebekahs and Royal Neighbors.

Mrs. Carl Pister sang "Lead Kindly Light" and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." The pall bearers were Walter Gregg, Al Leach, Ross Stuckey, Dan Gruwell, Ed Brown and Wade Filppen.

The services were in charge of the Gillogly Funeral home with the graveside service conducted by the Eastern Star. Interment was in Fairhaven cemetery.

TOY WORK IS COMPLETED BY TWO FIREMEN

ORANGE, Dec. 23.—Two Orange firemen who have been busily employed mending and painting toys for children are now resting from several busy weeks of work. They are William Vickers and Ed Higgins and they are proudly surveying the array of toys which have been rejuvenated by them.

Mechanical toys which would in the natural course of events have been relegated to the junk pile have been made as good as new by combining several which have been broken. A number of teams of horses have been fastened to wagons, making attractive toys.

Many persons have unlimited faith in the firemen's ability to mend toys, Vickers says, but the volunteer Santas have been stumped in making a number of the dolls presentable. Mrs. Grace Stahl, Vickers' daughter, has made clothing for the dolls and new heads and arms have been bought when needed.

Tricycles, large automobiles, red rocking chairs and wooden soldiers are included in the firemen's stock above the fire hall.

Older people have not been forgotten and a number of attractive candlesticks have been carved and decorated for them.

For applying decorative stripes to automobiles, a machine has been invented in which a wheel revolves in a receptacle for paint, the flow of which is controlled by a valve with a thumb.

STONES OF DESERT USED FOR DWELLING

ORANGE, Dec. 23.—J. B. Stinson is building a cobble-stone house in the 400 block on East Almond street. The stones, which are all white, are being hauled nearly a hundred miles from the desert. The home is to cost between $4000 and $5000.

Irvine To Give City Right-Of-Way For Storm Drain

COMPLETION OF NEGOTIATIONS IS ANNOUNCED

Negotiations carried on between the city authorities and the Irvine company for a two-mile right-of-way for a large drainage ditch to carry storm sewer waters from the city to the upper part of Newport bay were brought to a successful termination yesterday when James Irvine sr., president of the Irvine company, now on a visit here from San Francisco, not only agreed to give the city the desired right-of-way but furthermore indicated a willingness to pay for the construction of the ditch across his property.

In return for this concession, Irvine suggested that the cost of maintenance of the ditch, requiring a thorough cleaning each year, would be borne by the city. The estimated cost of maintenance was set at $500 a year.

Councilman John L. McBride represented the city in the negotiations. In submitting his report to the city council last night McBride recommended that the offer of the Irvine company be accepted, and that steps be taken to secure a 4000-foot right-of-way over the Holly Sugar corporation's property in the south part of the city. McBride expressed the belief that the sugar company would be willing to grant the necessary easement. According to City Engineer Clyde Jenken, the proposed improvement is still in a tentative stage, and so far no preliminary plans have been made. A portion of the drainage channel will be covered, and a part will be an open ditch, Jenken explained.

TUSTIN

TUSTIN, Dec. 23.—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Edwards and sons, John and Theo, of Richmond, are holiday house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Aldrich.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brown will be hosts at a delightful family reunion Christmas day. Invited guests include Mr. and Mrs. George C. Pickering and daughter, Betty, of Fullerton; James Pickering, of Livingston; and Mr. and Mrs. R. H. McArthur and Miss Inez Hickman, of Orange.

Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Silver and daughter, Mary Jean, and son, William, will be entertained at Christmas dinner in the home of Mrs. Silver's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Wentz, in Garden Grove.

The holiday colors of red and green were used to adorn the home of Mrs. F. C. Matthews when she was hostess recently to members of the Neighborhood club. Tall red tapers in crystal holders tied with tulle bows of red tulle and baskets of poinsettias and cottons were used in carrying out the color theme.

The afternoon was spent with fancy work and music. Concluding her hospitality, Mrs. Matthews served a delectable refreshment course.

Those sharing the pleasant afternoon with the hostess, were Mesdames Roy Runnels, Owen A. Murray, Earl Sharpless, Hollis Lindsey, E. A. Watson, Arthur L. Trickey and Mrs. Harry Kendrick, a guest of the club.

One of the delightful family reunions to be held Christmas day will be that to take place in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Cawthon, of Newport road. Invited guests include Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hemstreet and sons, Chester Lee and Howard, of Westminster; Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Roberts and son, Donald, of Bell; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bacon and daughter, Mary Jane; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cawthon and daughter, Wanda; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miller and children, Richard and Doras, of Santa Ana, and Mr. and Mrs. Reuben W. Edwards and sons, Ralph and Roland, of Westminster.

WHERE FOUR DIED IN CABIN

How only a chimney was left standing as a grim monument to four hunters who perished in a flaming cabin on the shores of a lake near East Otis, Mass., is shown in this picture of the ruins. Others in a party of fifteen escaped, most of them with injuries, when fire destroyed the recently constructed two-story structure.

FARRELL FILM OPENS AT WEST COAST THEATER

Charles Farrell returns to Santa Ana today in his latest all-talking picture and a picture particularly adapted to his style of acting. It is "The Princess and the Plumber" and it will be shown at the Fox West Coast theater today and tomorrow.

With Farrell is Maureen O'Sullivan, the little actress who will be remembered here in the leading role in "Just Imagine." She is a rival for the place of Janet Gaynor with the big star who aided in making "Seventh Heaven" and such pictures among the top notches of two years ago.

There were several who did not like the picture "Lillom" starring Farrell, which played here several weeks ago. But that was not Farrell's fault. In "The Princess and the Plumber," he has a different type role, a role more to his liking and one the American public better understands. He should prove a great favorite in the type of role he plays in this film, as he is again the young American, in a foreign country, penniless but happy and with a smile and a disposition that wins immediately.

The story centers around a foreign castle being rented by a lord to a baron who is in love with his landlord's daughter. She, however, falls in love with a plumber working at the castle and when the baron learns that he can not win the girl, tells her father of the affair with the plumber. There are many little misunderstandings that

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The question "Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" constituted the subject of the Lesson-Sermon, Sunday, in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. To answer the question, the Lesson-Sermon cited various Bible texts and correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy.

Among the Scripture selections were these expostulations of Isaiah: "Produce your cause, saith the Lord; bring forth your strong reasons, saith the King of Jacob. . . . Shew the things that are to come hereafter, that we may know that ye are gods; yea, do good, or do evil, that we may be dismayed, and behold it together. Behold, ye are of nothing, and your work of nought: an abomination is he that chooseth you." Another selection presented Isaiah's counter-statement, "But now thus saith the Lord that created thee, O Jacob, and he that formed thee, O Israel, Fear not: for I have redeemed thee, I have called thee by thy name; thou art mine." A passage from Science and Health stated, "The true theory of the universe, including man, is not in material history but in spiritual development."

have to be ironed out before the picture comes to a happy ending for all concerned. "The Princess and the Plumber" is good entertainment. Of a light nature throughout, it is not to be taken seriously and it is for that reason, Farrell and Miss O'Sullivan score so heavily.

LISTS CHANGES PROPOSED FOR BUILDING LAWS

Designed to give better protection to contractors, material men and laborers on building projects are certain amendments to the mechanic's lien law, endorsed by the Southern California conference of Builders exchanges, which are to be submitted to the next state legislature, according to Frederic W. Sanford, secretary-manager of the Orange County Builders' exchange.

The amendments follow:
1. Giving concurrent jurisdiction in the mechanic's lien actions under $2000 to the superior and municipal courts and clearing up doubts as to necessary parties defendant where they are holders of mortgages or deeds of trust.
2. An obligatory requirement for the withholding of building funds after the service of the stop notice, unless a bond for the protection of the laborers and material men has been furnished in response thereto.
3. The provision that bonds executed by money lenders for faithful completion should be required to inure to the laborers and material men as well.
4. The enactment of a statute permitting the financing of the property either before or after beginning construction, by the filing of a bond running to the laborers and material men in an amount equal to one half of the face principal amount of any mortgage or deed of trust which is to be a building loan upon the property.
5. The enactment of legislation establishing, so far as possible, the principle that a building loan is a trust fund applicable to the completion of the building and the payment of laborers and material men involved therein, and all building loans to maintain priority shall be accompanied by a recorded bond insuring to laborers and material men for an amount equal to one half of the face of said loan.

SPECIAL PASADENA BUSSES ANNOUNCED

On account of the widespread interest in the annual Tournament of Roses and the annual East-West football classic in Pasadena on New Year's day, the Motor Transit stages have announced special excursion service from this city to the Crown City for the occasion, according to A. M. Thomas, local agent for the bus company.

Santa Ana patrons will be given a reduced fare for the round trip. The Motor Transit stages will go direct to the line of march.

Thomas also stated that it will be advisable to leave on the 6:30 a.m. schedule or earlier if possible in order that a good location may be secured from which to view the parade. He also advised that the special cars will return directly after the parade and that the excursion tickets will be good returning during the balance of the day.

Little Lad Has Party In Celebration of Sixth Birthday

Little Max Crowder was a happy lad yesterday afternoon when he observed his sixth birthday anniversary with a delightful party in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Crowder, 825 South Garnsey street. Of course his mother acted as hostess and carried out her young son's hopes and plans for the memorable occasion with charming success.

The honor guest did not consider himself at all unfortunate in having a birthday so near the date when Old St. Nick makes his appearance, for many were the hand-made gifts with which his little friends presented him. A large Christmas tree, prettily decorated, served as the setting for the attractive packages, and much of the afternoon was spent in investigating their contents.

Games and contests of all descriptions were enjoyed, and an appetizing refreshment course was served at a table decked with all the brilliance and cheer of the holiday season. Included in the menu was a large cake, decorated, and bearing six gleaming candles. Mothers present, other than Mrs. Crowder, included Mrs. Keith Stowe, Mrs. Fred Miller and Mrs. Earl Neer.

Children sharing the hospitality of the home were Lois Borgard, Margaret Ober, Harry Harlow, Jack Stowe, Robert Stowe, Marjorie Herron, Cecil Herron, Regina Baldwin, Maxine and Glenn Ezell, Marcella and Norman Lalonde, Frank Hunt, Marjorie Doerr, Betty May, Doris and Richard Miller, Warren and Lawrence Neer, Lloyd and Mary Juden, Betty Shidler, Roger Donaldson, Billie Cathcart, Martin Deane, Delbert and Sydney Carr, Lorin Moore and Jack Henderson.

Linen Shower Is Compliment to Bride-Elect

Honoring her daughter, Miss Edna May Echols, whose marriage to Carl Woods of this city is to be an event of the near future, Mrs. Bruce Echols entertained recently in her home at 1417 West Ninth street. The affair was a linen shower, and many were the dainty pieces presented to the young bride-elect.

All of the details of the evening party were a surprise to Miss Echols. A gayly decorated Christmas tree and bouquets of brilliant-hued poinsettias provided an attractive setting for the affair. Games and music were enjoyed, and with the conclusion of the evening, an appetizing refreshment course was served.

Those present, other than Mrs. Echols, and the honoree, Miss Echols, were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Johnson, Mrs. Grace Meyers and children, Mary and Junior, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Echols, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Echols, Miss Erma Baxter, Miss Mary Detweiler, Miss Ruth Sweeney, the Misses Cora and Clara Dunham, Miss Pearl Lewis and Miss Ruth Potts and Carl Woods, Lawrence Owen, Robert Murrill, Doyle Gilbert, Carroll Gilmer, Morris Gilmer, T. W. Beier, Miss Margaret Echols, and sons of the home, Leonard, Bruce, Paul, Ray, Chandler, Sam, Harold and Bobbie Echols.

Business Women Join In Merry Yuletide Celebration

Everyone seemed to have such a pleasant evening when members of the Business and Professional Women's club assembled last night in the Y. W. rooms for a party, that it must have been very gratifying to Mrs. Theo A. Winbigger and her December committee, to know that their plans for a happy affair, was so successful and so appreciated. For Mrs. Winbigger, Mrs. Myrtle Robinson, Miss Lorraine French, Mrs. Italy Lee and Mrs. Joseph Catherine, forming the December group, climaxed a valuable and interesting month with the party which was their courtesy to the clubwomen.

The Y. rooms, with their pretty decorations, the Christmas tree gleaming with lights and ornaments, and the tall red candles in wrought iron candelabra, made a charming setting amidst which the clubwomen entered into the genial spirit of the evening with much enthusiasm.

A brief program planned for their entertainment, opened with the Christmas hymns that everyone knows and loves, "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing," and others, sung by the entire group with Miss Hester Covington at the piano. Miss Harriette Morris followed with O. Henry's famous story, "The Gift of the Magi," and a clever little poem in French dialect.

Freda Moesser Barger, Mrs. Charles Blackburn and Miss Ethel Coffman formed an excellent trio and sang two Christmas favorites, "Silent Night" and "O Holy Night," with Mrs. Lee at the piano. Three quaint folk songs, Russian, Negro and French all on the Christmas theme, were sung by Miss Nancy Elder and Miss Agness Todd Miller with Miss Covington as accompanist, and the program closed with a Christmas reverie, "In the Manger," sung by Mrs. Barger, who followed it with a short poem, "The Cross Road."

In the subsequent hours, the "Beeps" flung aside dignity and joined wholeheartedly in such old favorites as "musical chairs," and other games and contests, in which boxes of lollipops, won by Mrs. Marshall Northcross and Mrs. Marjory Joplin, were shared with all.

The height of the evening's merriment was reached with the visit of Santa Claus, and it wasn't long until the guests discerned the familiar features of Miss Alma Karlsson beneath the long white whiskers of the beloved saint. The bestowal of the pretty little gifts brought by the members, was made a lively interval indeed, and Santa Claus took the opportunity to present two club gifts, a handsome vase in black glass and silver filigree, to Mrs. Northcross, the president, and a potted cyclamen with vivid red blossoms, to the club's distinguished life-member, Mrs. O. M. Robbins, who is generously shared by the first president, Miss Doris Robbins, with all the members as their "Yuletide mother."

Colorful Decorations Feature Full Fun Club Affair

Ketner's blue room was a reproduction of "Santa Claus Lane" Saturday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown were hosts to members of the Full Fun club. Big and little Christmas trees were used in decorating, and provided a festive note for the occasion.

The delectable menu was served at one long table decked with small trees, and evidencing the holiday theme. Old Saint Nicholas was there in person, and many were the lovely gifts which he presented each of those present.

In the bridge games of the evening Mrs. Philip Lalonde and Thomas Tournant scored high while Mrs. Homer Neer and Wilbur W. Gill, scored low.

Those sharing Mr. and Mrs. Brown's hospitality were Messrs. and Mesdames C. Wagner, Wilbur W. Gill, William Stanford, Ben Danker, Thomas Tournant, Noble Watson, Earl Neer, Homer Neer, Philip Lalonde, Russell Cook and Kenneth King.

Miss Mollie Carroll Will Be January Bride of Angelenan

What to all appearances seemed to be the usual semi-monthly meeting of an informal bridge club, with Miss Cleora Fine as hostess in her home at 1002 North Broadway, last night resolved itself into the first formal announcement of the betrothal of a charming Santa Ana girl, Miss Mollie Carroll, daughter of George Carroll, 427 North McClay street, to William McBride, young business man of Los Angeles. At the same time, the guests, who had been aware of the betrothal, although it was not widely known, took the opportunity to show Miss Carroll with lovely gifts for her future home.

Miss Fine had arranged the entire affair so cleverly that no one suspected the party was to have such significance, least of all the honoree. Guests devoted their attention to bridge in the usual manner, with Mrs. G. S. Markel making the high score. To her was presented a fascinating little Colonial make-up box, while an equally pretty gift went to Miss Grace Anderson, scoring low.

Bridge tables were arranged attractively for serving refreshments of ginger ale salad with little hot rolls, pumpkin pie topped with fluffy masses of whipped cream, and coffee, and Miss Fine's sister and cousin, Mrs. Robert Rutherford (Charlotte Fine) and Miss Margaret Young, assisted in serving. The engagement news was told at the conclusion of the supper interval, and the chosen wedding date of January 22 revealed. Then the climax of the evening came with the presentation to Miss Carroll of the assortment of desirable gifts, which in their Christmas wrappings and ribbons were doubly attractive.

Hostess and honoree have been close friends since their little girlhood days and went through school together from their earliest studies at St. Joseph's Parochial, through Polytechnic high school, where they graduated in the same year. Miss Fine is continuing her studies at junior college, but Miss Carroll took only the first year's college work, giving it up to manage the affairs of the home.

Those sharing last night's delightful party included in addition to hostess and honoree, Mrs. G. S. Markel, Mrs. Andrew Carroll, Mrs. John Planchon, Mrs. Robert Laubery, the Misses Margaret Young, Ruth Heim, Grace Anderson, Katherine Kendall, Rachel Smith and Eileen Carroll.

J. J. Vernons Observe Christmas With Gay Family Party

Two annual events were observed in the lovely J. J. Vernon home on Santiago avenue Sunday when relatives were bidden to a delectable dinner in observance of Christmas and the birthday anniversary of George Vernon of Compton.

Baskets of holly decorated the rooms, and formed an attractive background for the prettily appointed table centered with a miniature tree. Red tapers added their note of color to the scene. Turkey and all tempting accessories were included in the menu, concluded when a large birthday cake iced in red and topped with candles of the same hue, was placed before George Vernon.

The gift exchange took place in the afternoon, with a large Christmas tree, twinkling with lights and silvery tinsel, adding much to the atmosphere of the occasion.

Those present were Mrs. J. B. Vernon of Elsinore, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Edmondson and son, J. B., and daughter, Blanche, of Huntington Beach, Mr. and Mrs. George Vernon and daughter Wanda, of Compton, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Vernon and little daughter, Betty Louise.

Patrons, Patronesses Are Announced For Pen-Hellenic Ball

In completing their preparations for a gala evening on Friday, December 26, Mrs. Maurice Enderle, president of the Southern Orange County Pan-Hellenic society, and her committee chairmen, have asked a number of prominent people of the community, to assist them as patrons and patronesses on the night in question, when the annual Christmas ball will be presented in the Orange Woman's clubhouse.

Included in this group are Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Eastman, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Tessmann and Mr. and Mrs. Terry E. Stephenson of this city; Mr. and Mrs. William Cummings of Orange, and Miss Gladys Cramer of Fullerton, president of the Northern Orange county Pan-Hellenic.

From the interest evinced by the general public in this coming function, indications are that it will be one of the largest affairs ever presented by the society, and that the sum realized to be applied on the student loan fund, will be correspondingly large. Pan-Hellenic members established the custom of the Christmas ball shortly after the formal organization of the society a few years ago, and it has come to be recognized as one of the most brilliant and enjoyable social functions of the year. Proceeds are always applied on the loan fund by means of which, ambitious young people are enabled to continue their college work.

YOU and your Friends

Roland Davis, a junior at Stanford university, and a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity, is spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Davis, French street.

Miss Lynne Paddock, a junior, and Eileen Paddock, a sophomore at Whitler college, are spending the Christmas vacation with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Paddock, Panorama Heights.

Miss Rose-Marie Smith, a student at Washington university, Seattle, is sending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Smith, 1717 North Broadway.

Announcement Party Tells Secret of Betrothal

That Miss Myrtle Ketchum, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Ketchum, is to become the bride of Marvin M. Cragun, of Minneapolis, Minn., during the summer of 1931, was the interesting news revealed yesterday afternoon at an announcement party held in the Ketchum home at 704 Eastwood avenue. The brilliant hues of the holiday season were chosen as the decorative notes, and especially lovely were the poinsettias which enhanced the attraction of the home.

Bridge was the game of the day, and with its conclusion dainty gifts were awarded Miss Myrtle Smith and Miss Ella Mary Parks as first and second high scorers. During the refreshment course tables were spread with snowy linens, in charming contrast with flaming red tapers tied with tulle bows and resting in silver holders. It remained for the clever little red nut cups to disclose the engagement news, for within the Christmas bells which hung from their handles were concealed the tiny scrolls.

The guests were agreeably surprised late in the afternoon when Mr. Cragun arrived, together with Miss Ketchum's sister, Mrs. Jasper Farney and her two small sons, Howard Kay and Milton Ray. No definite date has been set for the summer marriage. Miss Ketchum is teaching English in the Oxnard union high school at present, and is a graduate of U. C. L. A., later attending Berkeley. She attended Santa Ana high school and junior college as well.

Her fiancé is a member of the faculty at Whitman college, Walla Walla, Wash., and will return to that city after spending the holidays here. The young people plan to establish a home in Walla Walla.

Those present at the charming affair yesterday afternoon, other than Miss Ketchum and Mrs. Ketchum were Miss Helen Drake, Miss Betty Hoy, Miss Evelyn Metzgar, Miss Enid Twist, Miss Lois Winslow and Mrs. De Roy Dixon of this city; Miss Elaine Smith and Miss Myrtle Smith of Orange; Miss Ella Mary Parks and Mrs. Charles Hunt, of Anaheim, and Miss Edythe Lewis of Ontario.

Fraternal Aid Union

Delightful were the Christmas festivities of the Fraternal Aid Union, held in the lodge hall late last week. The room had been appropriately decorated, and besides the pretty tree there were suspended from the walls and the ceiling supports, large branches of snow-laden pines from which were trailing the customary tinsel streamers, giving a most realistic winter effect.

Children's exercises under the direction of Mrs. Albert Schrott and her assistants, occupied the early part of the evening, and consisted of readings, vocal and instrumental music and a little Christmas playlet. The entire program was of a high order for children, and was rendered without hesitation or embarrassment. While every number was deserving of special mention, the violin solo of little Adah Mae Adkins was unusually striking, the accuracy of tone and the exhibition of memory being remarkable for a tot of only five years.

The children having numbers on the program were John Lee Henderson, Ray Henderson, Bettie Joe Henderson, Adah Mae Adkins, Charles Adkins, Alle June Bouche, Mary Jean Warren, Dorothy Allen and Evelyn Owens, all of Santa Ana; Shirley Lewellyn and Billy Lewellyn of Anaheim, and Henrietta Campbell, Austin Campbell and Margaret Yeager of Orange.

Following the program, Santa Claus appeared in person. The members of the drill team had made previous arrangements with the good old "Santa" to the end that a suitable present was produced from his commodious pack for every child present.

When refreshments were announced the little ones were marched in a body to the reading room which had been transformed into a veritable kindergarten dining room. At daintily appointed tables they discussed their respective gifts along with their milk and cookies, candy and apples. The grown-ups were not forgotten but were served in the dining room with sandwiches and coffee and other good things of the season. Characteristic Christmas decorations were everywhere in evidence, and Yuletide cheer prevailed throughout.

Of special interest was an invitation for the degree staff from Santa Ana to perform the initiation services for the Long Beach lodge on the evening of January 9 when officers for the coming year will be inducted into their respective positions.

Country Club Party Brings Joy to Children

What a wonderful party the children had Saturday afternoon at Santa Ana Country club! Santa Claus himself visited them and distributed toys, boxes of candy and nuts, and rosy apples from his magic pack, and there were all the brilliant decorations which the older folk had enjoyed so much at their dance, to say nothing of special decorations arranged just for the Very Small People themselves.

These special appointments included the Christmas table cloths on the long tables where refreshments were served, and the small Christmas trees that formed such a pretty table effect.

And then there was a special program in which the children themselves took part, as well as the lively games planned by Mrs. T. F. McGilvray. In this program, Patsy Miller played two pleasing piano solos, "Slow Dance" by Terry, and Beethoven's "Minuet in G." Marie Therese LeGaye and Alice Bliner added a charming musical reading, with Alice at the piano, and Marie Therese telling the lovely "Story of the Star." Erma Jeanne May's reading, "The Bad Little Boys," was very much enjoyed, as was that of her brother, Douglas May, who gave "The Three Holidays." Elysis Bennis followed with "The Good Play," which she read very nicely indeed, after which June Blodgett completed the program by her well played piano solo, a Chopin "Prelude."

While some of the livelier games of the afternoon were played out doors, there were various merry contests in the big assembly room, including "musical chairs" in which Rosemary Blodgett won the prize.

A group of the young people assisting throughout the afternoon, included Marie Therese LeGaye, Barbara Tucker, Jimmie Tucker, Florence Liggett, Mary Elizabeth Emison, and Nancy Dell Russell. Others present were Eileen Cotant, Jean Cotant, Helen Blanche Andrews, Therese Hendry, LaMont Padden, Dorothy Carden, Billy Carden, Phyllis Bemis, Lawrence Bemis Jr., Ansel Watson, Barbara Cain, Morris Cain Jr., James DuBois, Lillian Tubbs, Rosemary Blodgett, June Blodgett, Alice McFarland, Barbara Baker, Tommy Walsh, Mary Walsh, Albert LeGaye, Alice Bliner, Maxine Osterman, Zada Marie Osterman, Danna Jean Munger, Donald Borgott, Jean Conliff, Clifton Cole, Constance Cole, Patricia Emison, Philip Lamm, Howard Rapp Jr., Loutie Belle Williamson, Virginia Lee Williamson, Stewart Hunter, Irene Hunter, Dicky Shaffer, Charlotte Shafter, Connie Ann Barker, Mary Ball, Jacky Ball, Louise Bushard, Mary Pat Murphy, Jack Murphy, Richard Halber, Miriam Webb, Harriet Webb, Louise Brownling, Paul Browning, Harriet Spicer, Carolyn Spicer, Anita Jean Johnson, Milton Ewing Johnson, Hugh Jolla Love Jr., Billy Lowe, Patsy Miller, Buddy Mease, Janice Winbigger, Elizabeth Winbigger, Dorothy Westover, George Dove, Margaret Reinhaus, Anne Harvey, Bobby Crenshaw, Lella Slaback, Erma Jean May, Douglas May, Pat Maloney, Molly Maloney, Betty Ann Huffman, Jimmy Walker, Charles Walker, Lora Alice Otie, Carl Joe Mock and Patricia Swanner.

Junior High Girls Give Party For Winners

Boys of section 124, low seven, of Julia Lathrop Junior high school who were winners in the P.-T. A. membership drive, were pleasantly entertained on a recent afternoon with girls of the class as hostess in the home of Miss Lois Mae Stockton, 508 South Bristol street. Miss Stockton is president of the girls' section.

The afternoon was spent in games and contests, ending with a merry gift exchange. Refreshments of pop-corn and candy were served late in the afternoon.

Those present, other than the hostess, were Lois Lambert, Marcel Rossier, Ruth Curren, Marie Smith, Marie Titchell, Mabel Dixon, and Katherine Stockton, and Elden Klingenberg, Onie Saunders, Jack Schilling, Bob Reid, Paul Woven, Bill Semnacker, Herbert Lykan, Joe Bradford and Bob Warren.

AIR ACCIDENTS
WASHINGTON, D. C.—A survey taken of airplane accidents has just been completed by the U. S. Department of Commerce and shows that defective pilots, even with only a slight deviation from the set standards, are implicated in more crashes than normal pilots. The percentage in 1927-28-29 showed 18 per cent of the normal pilots, and 27 per cent of the defectives had accidents.

Fraternity Men Greet Arrival of Brother For Holidays

When Glenn Hartman stepped off the train at Fullerton Saturday morning he was amazed to find, in addition to his sister, Mrs. George Sullivan, of this city, ten of his fraternity brothers of Beta Sigma waiting to welcome him home for the holidays from New Mexico Military Institute at Roswell, N. M. After the joyous greetings the group proceeded to the home of Mrs. Sullivan on 614 East Sixth street, where a delicious breakfast was served by his mother, Mrs. J. W. Hartman, of 336 East Walnut street, and Mrs. Sullivan.

Sharing in the delightful surprise were Bob Martin, Walker Chapman, Kent Martin, Ford Underwood, Tom Chapman, Ed Cox, Fern Underwood, Jimmy Patton, Corwin Frazee and Glenn Hartman and the hostess, Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. Hartman.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Quill Pen club members are anticipating their Christmas party to be held tonight at 7:45 o'clock in the home of Miss Lella Watson, 1840 West Eighth street, where each one will appear costumed to suggest some story written by some one member of the group. The gift exchange which is always a feature of the club's Yuletide party, will be held and the entire evening given over to social features.

Santa Ana pyramid No. 41, Ancient Egyptian Order of Solots, will hold its Christmas party to night at 8 o'clock in K. P. hall. There will be a tree, gifts and a treat for the children, and entertainment features for every member of the family, with the evening to close with dancing and cards for Solots and their friends.

Salvation Army Benefit Show Tonight

PHILCO BENEFIT SHOW AT WEST COAST TONIGHT

The Philco benefit show for the unemployed of Santa Ana, will be held at the Fox West Coast theater tonight and the proceeds of the show will be turned over to the Salvation Army for distribution among the poor and particularly those without jobs.

The L. M. Turner Radio company, dealers in Philco radios, will give away, absolutely free a Baby Grand Philco receiving set at tonight's performance, as Philco's bit in aiding the unemployed situation.

In many cities throughout the United States the Philco company is giving away receiving sets in the same scheme to aid the poor, but in most places the radio set is being auctioned off before the audience. In this case, Norman Sprowl, Fox theater manager here, stated that more money would be derived for the poor by giving the set away and having the Fox theaters here co-operate with the Turner Radio company.

The feature picture tonight is "The Princess and the Plumber," starring Charles Farrell and Maureen O'Sullivan. It is the story of an American boy, working as a plumber in Europe, who falls in love with a princess and wins her in spite of numerous hardships and cutthroat tactics used against him. The picture plays here for the first time tonight.

BREA

A Christmas party at which members of the Brea post of the American Legion were special guests was given by members of the auxiliary of the post at the Legion hall Thursday evening. A pot-luck dinner opened the evening's pleasures and an exchange of comical gifts followed. About 100 were present.

The birth rate in the birth registration area of the United States, which includes about 95 per cent of the population, was the lowest in 1929 since the establishment of the registration area in 1915.

"TOL'ABLE DAVID" AT FOX BR'DWAY HOUSE

"Tol'able David," the all-talking film adapted from Joseph Hergesheimer's celebrated novel, is a vivid and unforgettable screen drama. It opened at the Fox Broadway theater Monday night and was enthusiastically received by the large audience.

This is a drama of West Virginia mountaineers. The eldest son of the Kinemon family is maimed for life by a group of worthless ruffians. The head of the family succumbs to heart failure just as he is about to avenge his son and there is left only "tol'able David," the adolescent son of the house of Kinemon, to pay the family's debt of honor.

The story is further involved by the fact that David is in love with Esther, a relative of the family that has caused so much tragedy in his family. Furthermore, his mother will not allow him to go "gunning" for his enemies because she is afraid they will kill him. But finally David triumphs—he comes into glorious manhood and wins the girl he loves.

AMOS 'N ANDY FILM AT MISSION HOUSE

"Check and Double Check," the great comedy produced by Radio Pictures and features Amos and Andy of radio fame will be shown in Santa Ana for an entire week starting Christmas day at the new Mission theater at Third and Bush street.

The picture is the first that has been made by the famous black boys of the air and the plot of the film is taken from their nightly air adventures, the show covers the entire range of characters offered over the air plus a stirring tale of love among white people.

The picture presents Amos and Andy and their Fresh Air Taxi cab company, while King Fish, Lightin' and other well known characters of the nightly sketches are also seen in the picture.

"Check and Double Check" has been running in Los Angeles for some time, but this is its first appearance in Orange County.

NOT "TOL'ABLE" NOW

'ANIMAL CRACKERS' CLOSES RUN TODAY

Harpo Marx comes by his fondness for other people's silverware, watches, ties and handkerchiefs honestly, he explained at Paramount's New York studio during a lull in the filming of "Animal Crackers." This hilarious feature with the four famous buffoons of "Cocoanuts" is closing tonight at Walker's State.

"Grandfather was a magician, and quite good at it, I understand," Harpo recalled solemnly. "He once stole the Brooklyn Bridge and was halfway home to the Bronx before they caught up with him."

Are waffles just waffles in your family, or do you turn your imagination loose and experiment with new ways of making these crisp delectables still more appetizing? Let's start with a good basic recipe.

Take 2 eggs, separate, putting the whites into the waffle pitcher and the yolks into the mixing bowl. Whip the whites to a thick froth, then use the same egg beater to mix the yolks (this way you need not wash the beater.) Add to the yolks 1 teaspoonful of sugar and 1 scant teaspoon of salt, give a few turns of the beater and pour in 1-4 cup sweet milk, and whip well.

To 1 cup of flour and 2 rounded teaspoonfuls of baking powder, sift and whip into the liquid. Then comes the melted fat—8 table spoonfuls of it—whip well and if the batter seems a little thin add flour to thicken slightly, not more than 1-4 cupful. Turn this batter over the beaten whites and whip well to mix. Preheat the waffle iron 8 to 10 minutes.

Now for the variations: Have you ever tried corn meal or bran waffles? They are exceedingly good and made more so by the addition of a dozen walnut meats, shaved fine.

Use 2-3 cup of flour, with meal, or bran, to make up the balance. Rice muffins are my next offering. I discovered how good these were when I found the flour bin almost empty and remembered the cupful of cold boiled rice in the refrigerator. Then one of the family said they thought sausage would be good in waffles... they meant tiny cooked link sausage, split in half, and baked in the waffle, but some cooked sausage cakes made the sausage question "Hobson's choice," so in they went after taking a crushing trip through the food grinder, but how good those waffles were!

Pecan nuts, slightly broken, scattered over the batter just after it has been poured into the iron is another delicious nut waffle combination.

TODAY'S RECIPE

CORN CHOWDER

4 tablespoons butter
1 mild onion, chopped fine
2 cups potatoes, diced fine
1 quart whole milk
1 small can corn
Salt and pepper
Tiny pinch of sugar.

Gently saute the diced onion in the butter, when half done, drop in the diced potato, cover and simmer gently for 15 minutes to take away the raw taste. In a larger kettle bring the milk to a boil, add the corn and then put the sauted onion and potato into the hot milk and let simmer until the potato is tender.

Taste and season. A tiny pinch of sugar brings out unexpected flavors in most of the foods with which we ordinarily associate only salt and pepper as seasonings.

If the chowder is thicker than you care for it, it may be thinned with hot water, hot skim milk, or with chicken broth made out of the convenient little meat cubes. If you want a delicate clam chowder, just heat and add a tall can of minced clams, and there you are!

The calories total close to 1725, with energy-making starches nicely offsetting the milk protein. The recipe as given will serve four people if a generous dessert is provided. It may be anything from prune soufflé served with whipped cream, to good old-fashioned baked apple with cream. One thing is needed, however, and that is the alkaline elements provided by a dessert using fruit as a base... pies debared though.

Hot oil shampoo with valuable information on the care of the scalp is the subject discussed in the current leaflet. The leaflet may be had free of charge all this week by mailing me a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A delicious Raisin Bread will be the recipe for tomorrow.

ANN MEREDITH.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN — PICTURES BY KNICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

The Bird Man quite amused the day. Before we start, however, bunch. Soon Scouty said, "I have a hunch that there is something tricky in the way that queer man acts. I hardly think his pecking's done 'cause he thinks that it is fun." "Of course not," said the Travel Man. "Here are the real true facts:

"That man's a hunter. Yes, siree! And he's as clever as can be. By dressing up like some big birds he catches lots of prey. He crawls but never says a word. The birds think he's another bird. And, with a stick, he kills some. Then the others fly away."

"Oh, gee! That's cruel," Clowny cried. The friendly Travel Man just sighed, and answered, "You are right, my son. But birds are good to eat. So, tricky hunters, every day, go 'round and get their food that way. They tell me that the birds they cook taste very nice and sweet."

"But, now, let's be upon our way. We'll reach some other town to-

And then their big truck chugged away beneath the sun of one grand day. They traveled on for hours and hours. Then came another town. 'Twas Tessawa, a pretty place, where lived a very dark-skinned race. The truck stopped very shortly and the Thins all hopped down. A man rode up, astride a horse and said, "Where bound? What is your course? I am a native chief and I must know just whom you are." The Travel Man said, "We are friends. We don't know where our journey ends. We merely stopped to say hello and then we'll travel far."

(The Tinymites see some native dancers in the next story.)

Missing Letter Links

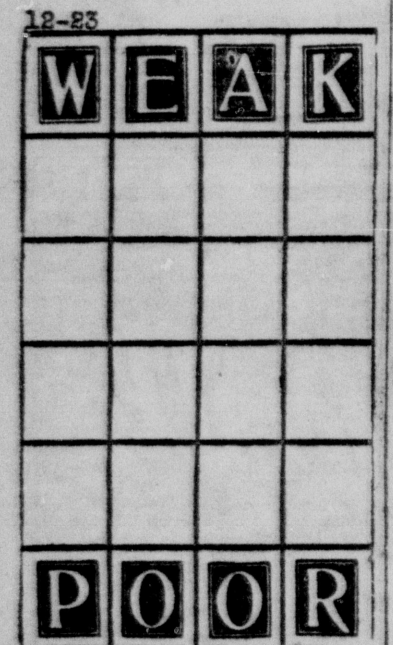

RULES

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE, TIE, PIE, PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

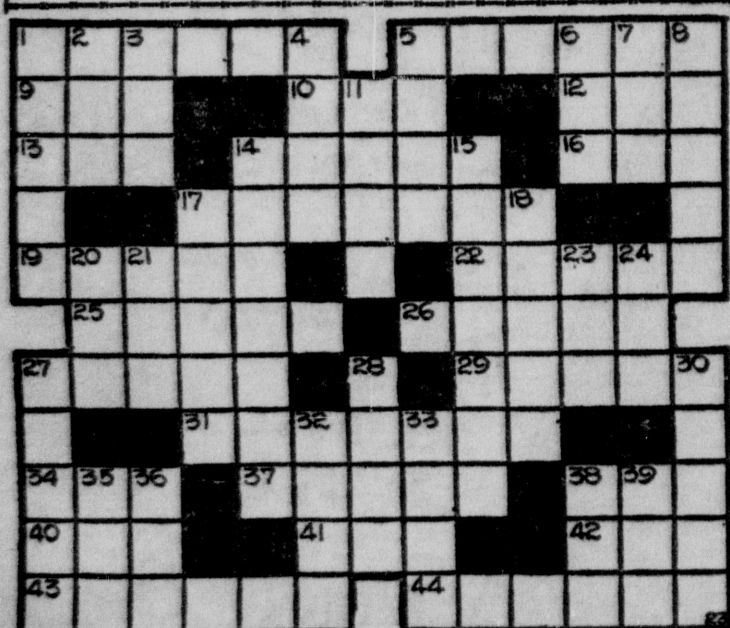

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

THE SCARAB MURDER CASE

A PHILO VANCE STORY
By S. S. VAN DINE

"I gave her one of my Regies," Vance told him carelessly. "Most appreciative young woman. Would you care for one yourself? I've two left."

"Thanks—I smoke Detties." "Ever dip 'em in opium?" Vance asked dulcely.

"Opium?" "The concrete juice of the poppy, so to speak—obtained from slits in the cortex of the capsule of Papaver somniferum, Greek word: opion—tl wit: omicron, pi, iota, omicron, nu."

"No!" Salvester sat down suddenly and shifted his gaze. "What's the idea?"

"There seems to be an abundance of opium in the house, don't you know?"

"Oh, is there?" The man looked up warily.

"Didn't you know?" Vance selected one of his two remaining cigarettes. "We thought you and Mr. Scarlett had charge of the medical supplies."

Salvester started and remained silent for several moments.

"Did Meryt-Amen tell you that?" he asked finally.

"Is it true?" There was a new note in Vance's voice.

"In a way," the other admitted. "Doctor Bliss—"

"What about the opium?" Vance leaned forward.

"Oh, there has always been opium in the cabinet upstairs—nearly a canful."

"Have you had it in your room lately?"

"No, yes, I—"

"Thanks awfully. We take our choice of answers, what?"

"Who said there was opium in my room?" Salvester squared his shoulders.

Vance leaned back in his chair. "It really doesn't matter. Anyway, there's no opium there now."

I say, Mr. Salvester, did you return to the breakfast-room this morning after you and Mrs. Bliss had gone up-stairs?"

"I did not. That is," he amended, "I don't remember."

Vance rose abruptly and stood menacingly before him.

"Don't try to guess what Mrs. Bliss told us. If you don't care to answer my questions, I'll turn you over to the homicide bureau—and God help you! We're here to learn the truth, and we want straight answers—Did you return to the breakfast-room?"

"No—I did not."

"That's much better—oh, much!" Vance smiled and resumed his seat.

"And now, Mr. Salvester, we must ask you a very intimate question—Are you in love with Mrs. Bliss?"

"I refuse to answer!"

"Good! But you would not be entirely broken-hearted if Doctor Bliss should be gathered to his fathers?"

Salvester clamped his jaws and said nothing.

Vance contemplated him, rummagingly.

"I understand," he said amicably, "that Mr. Kyle has left you a considerable fortune in his will—if Doctor Bliss should ask you to finance the continuation of his excavations in Egypt, would you do it?"

"I'd insist upon it, even if he did not ask me." A fanatical light shone in Salvester's eyes. "That is," he added, as a reasoned afterthought, "If Meryt-Amen approved, I would not care to go against her wishes."

"Oh!" Vance had lit his cigarette and was smoking dreamily. "And do you think she would disapprove?"

Salvester shook his head. "No, I think she would do whatever the doctor wanted."

"A dutiful wife—quite!"

Salvester bristled and sat up. "She's the straightest, most loyal—"

"Yes, yes," Vance exclaimed, a spiral of cigarette smoke. "Spare me your adjectives. I take it, however, she's not entirely ecstatic with her choice of a life mate."

"If she wasn't," Salvester returned angrily, "she wouldn't show it."

Vance nodded uninterestedly.

"What do you think of Hani?" he asked.

"He's a dumb beast—a good soul, though. Adores Mrs. Bliss.," Salvester stiffened and his eyes opened wide. "Good God, Mr. Vance! You don't think—"

"He broke off in horror; then he shook himself. "I see what you're getting at. But, but... Those degenerate modern Egyptians! They're all alike—oriental dogs, every one of 'em. No sense of duty—no loyalty as they make 'em. I wonder."

"Quite. We're all wonderin'." Vance was apparently unimpressed by Salvester's outbreak. "But, as you say, he's pretty close to Mrs. Bliss. He'd do a great deal for her—eh, what? Might even risk his neck, don't you know, if he thought her happiness was at stake. Of course, he might need a bit of coaching."

A hard light shone in Salvester's eyes.

"You're on the wrong track. Nobody coached Hani. He's capable of acting for himself."

"And throwing the suspicion on some one else?" Vance looked at the other. "I'd say the planting of that scarab pin was a bit too subtle for a mere fellow."

"You think so?" Salvester was almost contemptuous. "You don't know those people the way I do. The Egyptians were working out intricate plots when the Nordic race was arboreal."

"Bad anthropology," murmured Vance. "And you're doubtless thinkin' of Herodotus's silly story of the treasure house of King Rhampinitus. Personally, I think the priests were spoofing the papa of history. By the by, Mr. Salvester, do you know any one round here, besides Doctor Bliss, who uses Koh-i-noor pencils?"

"Didn't even know the doctor used 'em." The man flicked his cigarette ashes on the carpet and brushed his foot over them.

"You didn't by any chance see Doctor Bliss this morning?"

"No. When I came down to breakfast Brush told me he was working in the study."

"Did you go into the museum this morning before you went on your errand to the Metropolitan?"

Salvester's eyes blinked rapidly. "Yes!" he blurted finally. "I generally go into the museum every morning after breakfast—a kind of habit. I like to see that everything is all right—that nothing has happened during the night. I'm the assistant curator; and, aside from my responsibility, I'm tremendously interested in the place. It's my duty to keep an eye on things."

Vance nodded understandingly. "What time did you enter the museum this morning?"

Salvester hesitated. Then throwing his head back he looked challengingly at Vance.

"I left the house a little after nine. When I got to Fifth Avenue I suddenly occurred to me I hadn't made an inspection of the museum; and for some reason I was worried. I couldn't tell you why I felt that way—but I did. Maybe because of the new shipment that arrived yesterday. Anyway, I turned back, left myself in with my key, and went into the museum—"

"About half past nine?"

"That would be about right."

"And no one saw you re-enter the house?"

"I hardly think so. In any event, I didn't see any one."

Vance gazed at him languidly. "Suppose you finish the recital. If you don't care to, I'll finish it for you."

"You won't have to." Salvester tossed his cigarette into a cloisonne dish on the table and drew himself resolutely to the edge of his chair. "I'll tell you all there is to tell. Then if you're not satisfied, you can order my arrest—and the hell with you!"

Vance sighed and let his head fall back.

"Such energy!" he breathed. "But why be vulgar? I take it you saw your uncle before you finally quit the museum for the Great American Mausoleum on the Avenue."

"Yes—I saw him!" Salvester's eyes flashed and his chin shot forward. "Now, make something out of that."

"Really, I can't be bothered. Much too fatigued." Vance did not even look at the man; his eyes, half closed, were resting on an old-fashioned crystal chandelier which hung low over the center-table.

"Since you saw your uncle," he said, "you must have remained in the museum for at least half an hour."

"Just about," Salvester obviously could not understand Vance's indifferent attitude. "The fact is I got interested in a papyrus we picked up last winter, and tried to work out a few of the words that stumped me. There were the words anket, wash, and tema that I couldn't translate."

Vance frowned slightly; then his eyebrows lifted.

"Anket, wash, tema," he iterated the words slowly. "Was the anket written with or without a determinative?"

Salvester did not answer at once. "With the animal-skin determinative," he said presently.

"And was the next word really wash and not was?"

Again he hesitated, and looked uneasily at Vance.

"It was wash, I think. And tema was written with a double flair."

"Not the sledge ideogram, eh? Now, that's most interesting!—And during your linguistic throe your uncle walked in."

"Yes, I was sitting at the little desk-table by the obelisk when Uncle Ben opened the door. I heard him say something to Brush, and I got up to greet him. It was rather dark, and he didn't see me till he'd reached the floor of the museum."

"And then?"

"I knew he wanted to inspect the new treasures; so I ran along. Went to the Metropolitan—"

"Your uncle seemed in normal good spirits when he came into the museum?"

"About as usual—a bit grouchy, perhaps. He was never over-patient in the forenoon. But that didn't mean anything."

"You left the museum immediately after greeting him?"

"At once, I hadn't realized I'd been so long fussing over the papyrus; and I hurried away. Another thing, I knew he'd come to see Doctor Bliss on a pretty important matter, and I didn't want to be in the way."

Vance nodded but gave no indication whether or not he unreservedly accepted the other's statements. He sat smoking lazily, his eyes impassive and mild.

"And during the next twenty minutes," he mused, "—that is between ten o'clock and ten-twenty, at which time Mr. Scarlett entered the museum—your uncle was killed."

Salvester winced.

"So it seems," he murmured. "But—"

"He shot his jaw out—I didn't have anything to do with it! That's straight—take it or leave it."

"There, now; don't be indelicate. Vance admonished him quietly. "I don't have to take it and I don't have to leave it, do you see? I may choose merely to daily with it."

"Daily and be damned!"

Vance got to his feet leisurely, and there was a chilly smile on his face—a smile more deadly than any contortion of anger could have been.

"I don't like your language, Mr. Salvester," he said slowly.

"Oh, don't you! The man sprang up, his fists clenched, and swung viciously. Vance, however, stepped back with the quickness of a cat, and caught the other by the wrist. Then he made a swift, pivotal movement to the right, and Salvester's plumed arm was twisted upward behind his shoulderblades. With an involuntary cry of pain, the man fell to his knees. (I recalled the way in which Vance had saved Markham from an attack in the District Attorney's office at the close of the Benson murder case.) Heath and Hennessey stepped forward, but Vance motioned them away with his free hand.

AUTO HANGS BY WHEEL

BRIMFIELD, Ind.—(UP)—(UP)—When John Sloop attempted to avoid a collision, he drove his auto through the railing of a train bridge and the machine was suspended 18 feet above a creek bed by one wheel. Sloop, his wife, daughter, and another couple were rescued, uninjured, by a motorist.

LITIGATION OVER LAND COMPLICATED

Litigation over property in Laguna Beach on which it is planned to build a fine summer residence, and which has been before the court for some time, was augmented today by the filing of a cross complaint by the city of Laguna Beach, which is defendant in an action filed several days ago by Grace Booth, Stillman B. and Maurine G. Jamieson.

The matter started several months ago when complaint was filed seeking a writ of mandate to compel the issuance of a building permit. Following trial, issuance of the writ was denied by the court. The three plaintiffs recently filed another suit asking a decree of quiet title concerning the property, and it is to this action that the cross complaint was filed today.

The beach city is asking in the cross complaint for a decree covering that portion of the property which it claims under an easement and right of way for street purposes.

Court Notes

Inventory and appraisal of the estate of Fred I. Reese, which was filed today by Tax Appraiser John Anderson, shows that the estate is valued at $11,935. Daisy W. Reese is administratrix of the estate.

Ralph J. Mitchell has filed suit against B. Hays in which he asks judgment of $2400 on two promissory notes.

Property in Rancho San Juan Cajon de Santa Ana is involved in a quiet title action which has been filed in superior court by Harvey and Anna Hile against Gallard C. Page and others.

MOVIES WILL BE SHOWN AT HEALTH CAMP

Mrs. Amella A. Meagher, executive secretary of the Orange County Tuberculosis association, announced today that installation of the motion picture apparatus at the Orange county health camp has been completed and will be officially dedicated and put into use this afternoon.

"The project is a concrete example of what co-operative effort can accomplish," Mrs. Meagher said. "It was originally launched by Local No. 504 of the International Alliance of Theatrical and Stage Employees, at a benefit performance held in the Fox Broadway theater last March."

Various organizations and individuals then joined with the sponsors of the project and it was carried through successfully. The Anaheim Kiwanis and other service clubs of Anaheim and Santa Ana, the American Legion, all labor and women's organizations, and the press of the county co-operated heartily. Lumber and building material were furnished by the Orange County Lumbermen's association. Water pipe was donated by the city of Anaheim. Fire extinguishers were provided by the Orange County Firemen's association. Mr. Lamb, of Anaheim gave linoleum for the floors and Fred Robins supplied show cards to publicize the work.

Actual work on the building and installation of equipment was done by the carpenter's local No. 2201, electricians' local No. 1101 and 441, plumber's local No. 440, and the Orange County Lather and Plasterers. H. H. Armbrust did the metal work.

"The entire installation was made under the supervision of Boyd Sleeper, acting state fire marshal of Orange county. After a final inspection of the work yesterday, Mr. Sleeper stated that he considered it one of the most modern and complete in the country."

"Local No. 504, I. A. T. S. E. and the Anaheim Kiwanis club will participate in the dedication at the Orange county children's health camp Tuesday afternoon."

Harry C. Arthur sr., manager of the Fox Theater, has secured a complete screen program to be presented to the children and, in addition, he is providing Christmas gifts for them. It is planned to give the children a show and party that they will long remember."

Builders Exchange Directors Chosen

Representing branches of the building industry as well as different localities in the county are the 14 directors of the Orange County Builders' exchange who named Saturday afternoon as a result of an official canvas of ballots held at the offices of the organization. Under the provisions of the by-laws, R. C. McMillan, retiring president, becomes automatically a member of the new board of directors.

Following are the new directors to serve during 1931: Henry M. Adams, Anaheim; Charles E. Rutledge, Santa Ana; V. J. Anderson, Santa Ana; M. E. Beebe, Anaheim; A. G. Foster, Fullerton; C. M. Gilbert, Santa Ana; Allison Honer, Santa Ana; W. J. Kelly, Santa Ana; H. M. Massey, Brea; Walter F. Sorenson, Santa Ana; George W. Young, Santa Ana; Le Roy M. Strang, San Clemente and Henry Walters, Santa Ana. The new directors Frederic W. Jamieson are expected to meet tomorrow noon to elect executive officers.

CALVERT IN COURT ON THEFT CHARGE

The trial of S. B. Calvert, charged with grand theft, started Monday before a jury in the court of Judge H. G. Ames. Calvert and his wife, Marie, are jointly charged with the theft of an automobile belonging to E. F. Wallen, of Placentia, on November 13.

It is alleged that Mrs. Calvert, who was housekeeper for Wallen, drove away with the car, a radio and an electric iron, calling him from La Jolla later and advising him they were being held by her husband, and would be returned if he would pay $100. Wallen made a date for the transaction, which took place in Fullerton, after which the Calverts were arrested. It is said that Calvert had the keys of the car in his possession.

Mrs. Calvert is to be tried on the charge next month.

CUPID SENDS MANY HERE FOR LICENSES

The popularity of Orange county as a rendezvous for cupid's victims is shown in the fact that in the 15 notices of intentions issued Saturday, 14 cities were represented, and of the 18 couples to whom licenses were issued the same day, 14 cities again were represented.

Notices were filed by people who gave as their home addresses the following cities: San Bernardino, Los Angeles, Glendale, Bellflower, Fullerton, Alhambra, Oakland, Santa Ana, Hamilton, (Ohio), Glendora, South Pasadena, Hollywood and Burbank.

The cities represented by those to whom licenses were issued by the license bureau of the office of County Clerk J. M. Backs, were Whittier, Pasadena, Hollywood, Long Beach, Walnut Park, Los Angeles, Santa Ana, Ocean Park, San Pedro, Orange, Venice, Inglewood, Simi and Gardena.

EVENING SALUTATION

It was said 2000 years ago that "He that striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things," which is as basic a rule of conduct today as it was then. How sadly we of today have fallen away from this precept of right living.

—Dr. William Gerry Morgan.

PROTECT FREE SPEECH

The right of free speech was emphasized by the Los Angeles Ministerial Association at their annual business session yesterday. They did this through the adoption of a resolution requesting the Federal Radio Commission not to withdraw the licenses of radio stations which may be used improperly, but to lend their influence to the establishment and enforcing of such laws as would adequately penalize those who use speech or press in such manner as to endanger public welfare or unjustly destroy the good names or fortunes of individuals.

This resolution was directed mainly to KGEF, the broadcasting station used by the Reverend R. P. Shuler. The resolution of the ministers further states: "the question is broader than the individual license at issue and is nothing less than the constitutional question of freedom of speech and press. To deprive a man of his constitutional right would, in our opinion, be taking a step fraught with a danger greater than the evil you might strive to eliminate."

In our judgment, the members of the Ministerial Association of Los Angeles are to be congratulated upon the position that they have taken, and they should be supported in this position by all people who believe in the freedom of speech and the freedom of the press. There are adequate laws upon the statute books, with penalties attached, to provide for every misuse of speech, whether it is on the platform before an audience, before the microphone, or in the public press. The proper way to correct a misuse of rights is to see that the penalty of the law is applied, but not to deny the fundamental rights which a man possesses.

When it came to the question of the use of the radio as Mr. Shuler has used it, the resolution frankly stated: "There is divergence of opinion among members of our association as to the use that is, from time to time, made of the radio station, KGEF, operated by Rev. R. P. Shuler, under consideration by your honorable body, but there is no divergence of opinion as to the basic principles involved—the right of liberty of speech and of the press as guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States."

We believe the Federal Radio Commission desires to work in harmony with these fundamental principles, and they can well point to the Constitution and laws of the State of California which provide adequate punishment for the misuse of these rights. One law was passed during the last session of the legislature providing a penalty specifically for utterances made over the radio that are contrary to truth, and the radio commission could well call the attention of the objectors to the law and show them that in their attempt to do away with the radio station they are endeavoring to have the radio commission perform a service in order to save the community meeting its own obligations in respect to this law.

If things are said that are objectionable or wrong, there is the law and the penalty. They should use it. If one believes the statements in this paper are untrue and injurious to individuals, the courts are the remedy, if the paper refuses to make correction, but we have never heard, except in time of war, of anyone demanding the suppression of the paper itself. If a man should make an utterance on a public platform of a slanderous character, the law provides a remedy. We have never heard of an attempt being made to ask a court to rule that the man should be denied the right to speak. So it is with the radio, which furnishes to a man a farther reach and carrying power to his voice. The remedy is the penalty attached for its misuse; it is not to deny him the right to use it.

The ministers were perfectly clear and right upon this question.

THE CHRISTMAS RECESS OF CONGRESS

The news will be a bit tame for the next ten days, now that Congress is taking its holiday recess. It is astonishing how much Congress figures in the day's news when it is in session. Congress has come to be our national forum. The debates there arrest the attention of the whole country. How little the Californian knows what is going on in the legislature of Illinois, or New York, or Massachusetts. But what Congress is doing arrests the attention of the people of the whole country.

Yet Congress is a very necessary body, despite the criticism made of it at times. Congress reflects the opinions of the people—more so than does the Executive. There is no conflict of opinions in the Executive office. But Congress reflects the contrast and the conflicts of a whole national life. There, every class of our population has a voice—Republican, Democrat, industrialist, banker, worker, white, colored, native, naturalized, rich, poor, and so on. Why should we expect harmony always with these clashing interests sitting together? If some of us get impatient at times with Congress, let us not forget that if we were not impatient some others would be. We have no sympathy with the criticism leveled at Congress, nor do we have a sign of relief, as some do, when Congress adjourns. Congress is the collective voice of the people.

A LAMENT

In one respect the "stuffing" has been knocked out of Christmas. Pride in appearance has done the evil work. In days gone by, after the gifts had all been distributed, there was still the grand climax, the Christmas dinner, the turkey and "stuffing" and cranberry sauce and candied sweet potatoes and two or three kinds of vegetables and celery and rolls and relishes and salad and mince pie or plum pudding, or both and then nuts and candy. There were other things, too, in that feast but it has been so long since any of us around here have partaken of the old-fashioned Christmas feast of this magnitude that we just can't remember it all without looking it up in the old menu books. Then all afternoon people were wont to munch candy and top off the day with picking the turkey bones and eating some cold dressing. Now if we partake of half that much we regret it, for in addition to the day after "tummy ache" there is the record of the scales, and we have become so caloric-conscious.

What joy has been taken out of life! Many have reason to envy the laborer for he can release a healthy appetite. It is said that Lord Byron kept his Apollo-like appearance by eating a concoction of something and vinegar. He was very handsome, until he let himself go for a period. But what he missed!

Happy are those who for this one day will declare a moratorium. One of those who is an authority on reducing through diet says never to start a diet on a holiday. It is good advice. If, during three hundred and sixty-three days of the year one counts the calories, what additional joy, joy in excess of that felt by the people who eat all they want all the time, there will be on those days, say Christmas and Thanksgiving, or Christmas and New Years, when we have fruit and eggs and waffles and sausages and doughnuts and coffee cakes for breakfast and all the accompaniments of turkey at noon, and that delightful evening picking and plenty of home-made confections and hard Christmas candies and nuts and candied fruit during the day. Christmas has great possibilities for those who diet which cannot be imagined nor appreciated by those who don't. They can be happier than any others just because, forgetting all else, they will eat their fill. And then it will be a glorious memory and something to look forward to for the next holiday period.

Then there is another side to the period. There are those who can't get enough to eat most of the year and only when the spirit of Christmas touches the hearts and opens the purses do they have enough. For the nonce we are not writing about such as those. But one who is dieting to reduce can remember years ago in a children's home when once a year the children had all they wanted to eat. For hours the delectable fragrance from the kitchen inspired their imagination. They were kept waiting a long, long time before the dining room door was open and they rushed to the table which was loaded with even more food than the children had been capable of imagining. But, oh! the irony of it! The bitter pathos! Their little "tummies" were so unused to holding the quantity there before them that they couldn't be stretched to consume nearly all of it. Therefore, mingled with the memories of that day was the regret that they had been forced to leave anything on that table.

An Anniversary
Oakland Tribune

A hard winter was faced by the Father of His Country just 153 years ago. On December 19th, 1777, George Washington established that winter camp at Valley Forge where soldiers suffered while Congress and colonial legislatures argued and procrastinated.

There was written what has been called the saddest and yet most glorious chapter in our American history. Washington wrote to Governor Clinton of New York:

"For some days past, there has been little less than famine in the camp. A part of the army has been a week without any kind of flesh, and the rest for three or four days." To Congress he wrote: "I am convinced that unless some great and capital change takes place in that line (the commissary department) this army must inevitably be reduced to one or other of these three things: starve, dissolve, or disperse in order to obtain subsistence in the best manner they can." They stuck it out and men at home criticized them for not taking to the open field and attacking the British. Washington, holding his faith in the cause and its ultimate outcome, passing through the darkest hours of his military career, continued to plan and work for a reorganization of his forces. Confident of the future, he held the army together and slowly improved it. There have been hard winters since, but none like that faced by those soldiers upon whom the hope of American independence rested.

Government Aviation Gets Important Recognition
San Bernardino Sun

When the nation spends $100,000,000 on aviation, as it will in the next fiscal year, the public should be interested in some of the details.

The army and navy air services will use more than two-thirds of the money. The postoffice department will use a fifth of it on air mail. The commerce department, aiding commercial aviation, will use a tenth. The work of these four departments, is pretty well understood. There are other, less familiar, services.

The national advisory committee for aeronautics, which is the Government's air research body, gets over a million for research work.

The coast guard is purchasing new patrol planes which will be large enough to make rescues from vessels at sea. That is an interesting phase of coast guard work and aviation development that most of us know nothing about.

The smallest appropriation out of that $100,000,000 will go to the department of agriculture for its aerial fire lookout in the West and Northwest.

Aviation doesn't seem to be such a neglected orphan in this country as some critics have implied.

More Truth Than Poetry

SCIENTIFIC CURIOSITY

If Billy were an eagle,
A great and winged eagle,
He says he'd fly
About the sky
And hold an upturned cup
To catch the rain that follows
The flight of summer swallows,
He says he'll bet
That no one yet
Has seen the rain go UP!

He says that he is certain
That every foggy curtain
That veils the blue
Is rain or dew
That flows up to the skies,
But though for days together
In every sort of weather
He's taken care
To watch the air
He's never seen it rise.

Perhaps when he is older
And quite a little bolder
He'll sail a plane
And watch the rain
Ascend from farm and town.
It must fall UP in showers,
He says, for hours and hours
And so must snow
When cold winds blow,
Or how could it fall down?

"But Swords Are Better"

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

"Words are fine," shouts Mussolini, "but swords are better!" To which should be added the now well-known fact that neither by words nor by swords can any country recover industrial prosperity.

Mussolini appears to be suffering from the age-old delusion that foreign markets can be captured by military force. It would be as easy to capture the moon that way.

In any event, what good would it do Italy to have a permanent excess of exports over imports? Suppose Italy attained that goal by means of high tariffs, or by selling her products abroad at lower prices than at home, or by lending more money to her customers, or by parading an awe-inspiring navy upon the high seas. What good would that do? The net result would be less wealth for Italians to consume.

Some misguided patriots, to be sure, would revel in the statistics; but they could not eat the statistics, or wear them, or ride around in them. Every yard of cloth which they sent abroad, in excess of the value of imports, would lower the standard of living at home.

No nation ever became more notable than England for the wealth which it owned abroad, or more notorious for the poverty of its workers at home.

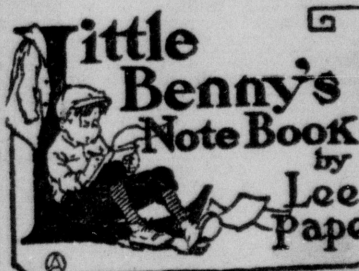

Most of the enjoyment which the Italian people gain from industry in the next ten years will be what they themselves consume. World markets, spheres of influence, prestige upon the seas, colonial development, foreign credits—all these will mean little to the Italian laborer, except in so far as they are coined into lire and slipped into his pay envelope.

What a bitter disappointment it would be to the Italians, after entering upon a glowing era of patriotism, to be plunged into permanent depression!

On the other hand, how beneficent would be the rule of the Despot Mussolini, if while forcing his people to produce abundantly, he enabled them also to consume abundantly!

Neither end can be achieved, either by the juggling of words, or by the rattling of swords.

Me and my cuzzen Artie was wawking along each eating a apple, and he threw his core away when it got useless, and I sed, I aint going to throw mine away, Im going to give it to a horse. G wize you mite as well be generous when you have a chance, I sed.

The first horse standing still that we came to being a brown horse attached to a white laundry wagon, and I held out my apple core in my hand and the horse looked at it and started to show his teeth, me thinking, G, suppose he misses his aim and bites too far.

And I quick pulled my hand back again, saying, No, thats too easy, Im going to make him werk a little for it, people awtent to get things too easy. Im going to make him catch it if he wants it, I sed.

And I threw it rite passed his fouth about 6 times and he never even tried to catch it. Proving he properly didnt realize what I was doing, and Artie sed, Good nite he aint going to catch it, he's only a laundry horse, he's no circus horse. Give it to him in your hand if you're going to be so generous, he sed.

Wich I started to do again, and the horse looked intristred and showed his teeth again, and I sed, No sir, nothing doing, he's got to catch it, I'm going to tie it on a string and make it a little easier. And I took a short piece of string out of my pocket and tied the apple core on one end and swung it easy passed the horses mouth, and when it bumped his nose he opened his mouth and quick grabbed it, me quick pulling the string out again so he wouldnt get indigestion.

Little Miss Catherine Walbridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Walbridge, will celebrate her birthday this afternoon when she entertains a number of friends.

A boxcar loaded with flour and consigned to W. N. Prince and company, was broken into Saturday night at the Prince warehouse and several small sacks of flour stolen.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

A WORLD WITHOUT A WEST

The other evening I sat through a presentation of The Big Trail, a talking film that captured with singular power the spirit of the pioneer push into the American West. The usual somewhat banal love story ran through the picture, but the grip and greatness of the film lay in its recapture of the spirit of pioneering.

It brought to life the spirit of grim determination, alike in the devoted and the devil-may-care pioneer, battling with wind and rain and snow and mud and desert heat and jealous Indians.

The film vividly dramatized these aspects of the pioneering era:

(1) The pioneers were pushed Westward by unsatisfactory conditions and opportunities behind them.

(2) The pioneers were pulled Westward by the lure of a Promised Land in which they might be masters instead of victims of conditions.

A nation's West may lie eastward or southward or northward, but it must be a region that will be to oppressed and repressed spirits a Land of Beginning Again.

The American West was for a long stretch of years a social safety valve for the American social order.

Men are not likely to grow embittered and revolt against what seem to them an ineffective social or economic order if "free land" to the westward beckons them.

The average man would rather be a pioneer than a revolutionist. But we are now citizens of a nation without a west. There are no longer the old "free lands" to serve as a safety valve.

We can no longer escape to new conditions. We must remake the old conditions to our desire and to our need.

And the deeper one goes into the character of the current world economic situation, the more one realizes that we are rapidly becoming citizens of a World Without a West.

The world is emerging from its youth of expansion and exploitation.

We face an era of intensive qualitative development of the areas and processes and phases of civilization that we have in the decades past preempted and created.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

SANTA CLAUS

Yes, I believe in Santa Claus. What would this world be without him? Lonely as a desert no child can abide in it until that roistering old elf peeks his wise eye over the northern sky rim and blows an elfin horn.

Grown-ups are so drab. Life with them is so dreary. Its prunes and cereal and spinach and "Did you do your ears?" with long spasms of lessons in between. Santa Ana is a necessity.

A small person just has to know a beautiful secret, just has to be acquainted with magic, if he is to live with any degree of comfort in this very grownup world where every grubby fact is hauled in by the heels to receive exacted homage even to the last punctuation mark and dollar sign. One has to have a friend skilled in the wisdom of unreal things, one able to whisk off the face of this ordinary world and disclose that land where wishing is having and laughter knows no tears. Of course I believe in Santa Claus.

When one's ears grow deaf to the voices about them, just as that is happening takes on a sudden strangeness, and a feeling of utter loneliness falls upon one's spirit, there must be a way of escape to that place where things come clear and plain, where all that happens becomes quite right and cozy and friendliness fills the air.

It is always a great help to have an imagination that sets things right at the exact moment when they appear all wrong. It is a great gift that enables one to summon a fiery charger from out a crooked stick, a dragon from under the hearth rug, and a sword of burnished steel by a cunning twist of the wrist. The staid world fades away and in its stead are stately castles whose corridors ring to one's stately tread, rainbows that carry one to fortune's gold, sugar-plum trees, and nobody to bother.

It is in this pleasant place that Santa lives. Good old Santa who has brought smiles to the faces of countless little children through unnumbered years. Loving old Santa who has searched out the innermost secret yearnings and brought them to light in his knobby pack on Christmas morning.

He is coming. Prepare for him. Make a magic. Take a handful of children. Fill them to the eye with loving kindness, the spirit of Christmas, until it overflows in shouts of Merry Christmas. Think out secrets and bring them to pass. Fill the house with holly and fir and the spicy smells of Christmas goodies. Set out the red candles and deck the tree. He is coming.

But you must make a magic. A magic of love is what draws the reindeer across the sky, sets the stars aglow and the herald angels singing. A magic of love will bring riches untold, and joy, and Merry Christmas, and Santa. Of course I believe in Santa. Don't you?

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY
RUSH'S BIRTH

On December 23, 1745, Benjamin Rush, an American physician and patriot, was born at Philadelphia, Pa.

He graduated from Princeton and received his medical education in Europe. He taught chemistry in the Philadelphia college, which is now the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania. Elected a member of the Continental Congress, Rush was a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

After he returned from service as surgeon in the Revolution, he founded the Philadelphia dispensary and helped found Dickinson college.

Rush was prominent in public as well as in professional life. He took part, in 1780, in the formation of the new state constitution and was a member of the Pennsylvania convention for the ratification of the federal Constitution.

Of his considerable writings, his essays on the diseases and vices of the Indians are thought most valuable because they contribute new and important information to our knowledge of the American aborigines.
